New sign goes up

Wade Husher, 207 Ruth St., installs one of the new signs the city is putting up to bring city traffic signs into conformance with national standards. The program is funded by a grant from the federal government covering 90 per cent of the cost. The stop sign Husher is installing at the corner of North New Madrid and North streets is nearly 50 per cent larger than the one it replaces. (Daily Standard photo)

Ford vetoes $6 billion public employment bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford today vetoed a $6.1 billion public works employment bill, saying it would "do little to create jobs for the unemployed" and perhaps cost in excess of $25,000 per job.

He said the claims of the bill's sponsors that it would create 600,000 to 800,000 new jobs were "badly exaggerated."

Ford said administration experts estimated that at most, some 250,000 jobs would be created over a period of several years and the impact would come in late 1977 or 1978.

At that point, he said, the total would come to no more than 100,000 to 120,000 new jobs "barely a one-tenth of one per cent improvement in the unemployment rate."

Ford signalled his plan to veto the bill even before it got through Congress. It was passed by a wide margin.

A veto override battle was anticipated and House leaders already have scheduled reconsideration of the bill next Thursday.

The House, which passed the public works jobs bill Jan. 29 by a vote of 321 to 80, appears to have the needed votes for an override. The Senate passed the original bill last July, 65 to 28, more than the two-thirds needed to override. The Senate passed the final compromise version by a voice vote Dec. 17.

The President says the bill will cost too much and would take too long to create needed jobs. He has argued repeatedly in recent speeches that public service jobs are not the solution to unemployment and he prefers tax incentives to get private industry to expand and take on more workers.

Backers of the bill contend it would create some 600,000 jobs with grants of $2.5 billion to state and local governments for construction or improvements of schools, sewers, roads and other public works projects.

It would be aimed at helping construction and related industries that have been hardest hit by the recession.

Another controversial item is an "antirecession" aid provision of grants to state and local governments. The aid would be triggered when unemployment reaches 6 per cent or higher to guarantee continuation of necessary public services.

Tom David tiestifies in Hearnes case

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A former state director of revenue and a Jefferon City banker testified before a grand jury Thursday which resumed looking into the personal finances of former Gov. Warren E. Hearnes.

Thomas R. David, revenue director from 1965 to 1969, and Fred Rost, vice president of the Central Trust Bank of Jefferson City, were among three witnesses who appeared before the grand jury Thursday. The third was E. M. Riebold of Silver City, N.M.

David said he testified about his knowledge of Hearnes' finances and his personal stock ownership. David added he knew nothing about any of Hearnes' business transactions.

Rost refused to comment on questions asked him during his appearnce.

Riebold said he was asked about a 1 per cent interest that Hearnes reportedly had in a mining compamy in New Mexico of which Riebold was the principal stockholder.

Riebold said 10 per cente of the company was purchased from Alfred Gomez, another stockholder, in 1969 by the Founders of America Investment Corp., of Springfield. He said 9 per cent of the interest went to Founders and 1 per cent to Hearnes.

Riebold said he never met Hearnes and that his dealings in the matter were handled by Gerald Lowther, a Sringfield lawyer.

Mandatory jail term for gun use debated

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—A minimum three-year prison term would be tacked onto sentences given any criminal convicted of a felony in which he used a weapon under an amendment adopted by the Missouri Senate during debate on a revised criminal code.

Sen. Larry Marshall, R-Columbia, gained acceptance of the proposal Thursday after an attempt was turned back to exempt first offenders from the provision. The Senate, however, took no final action on the overall revision of the state's 140-year-old criminal laws.

Under the mandatory sentencing provision, there would be no possibility of probation, parole or conditional release until the convict had served the mandatory prison time.

First offenders, convicted of "armed criminal action," would have a three-year term tacked onto their primary sentences. Second offenders would have to serve a mandatory 10 years and third offenders would be imprisoned for 20 years.

Sen. John Schneider, D-St. Louis, unsuccessfully tried to exempt first offenders from the mandatory sentencing provisions. He claimed by not doing so, "we are increasing the potential that that person is more likely to become a hardened criminal."

The 283-page revision measure, scheduled for further debate next week, is intended to update criminal statutes and eliminate obsolete ones.

In the House, apparent confusion along with questions about contradiction of federal law led to the defeat of a bill that would have made it a misdemeanor to hire illegal aliens. The sponsor claimed the measure was needed to curb increasing incidents of illegal aliens being hired in the state.

The House gave final approval and sent to the Senate a measure intended to clear up Gov. Christopher S. Bond's objections to the controversial Nurse Practices Act. That law went into effect last month when the legislature, for the first time this century, overrode a governor's veto.

While the bill eliminates some problems cited by Bond, opponents said it did not go far enough, completely ignoring objections to a "violation of the spirit of the open meetings law.

Under the Nurse Practices Act, the secretary of the state Board of Nursing can keep secret records and information that had previously been open to the public.

Another measure sent to the Senate would require future construction or improvements in parks, recreational areas and rest areas to include modifications adapting them for senior citizens and the handicapped. The bill also would require instructional and directional signs in those areas to be in braille.

A statewide plan to put identification numbers of personal property was sent to the upper chamber, but because of several problem provisions changes are expected in the Senate. the so-called "Operation Ident" is intended to help police recover stolen articles.

Wholesale prices stable in January

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices remained stable in January as another big drop in farm prices offset increases for industrial goods, the government said today.

The Labor Department said prices actually rose four-tenths of a per cent last month but after adjustment for seasonal variations, the wholesale price index was unchanged.

The Commerce Department, meanwhile, said that inventories of the nation's businesses declined by $526 million in December and fell a total of $5.5 billion during all of 1975.

By contrast, inventories increased $46.6 billion in 1974.

While inventories were declining in 1975, sales increased only slightly, reflecting the depressed business conditions during the year. Commerce said combined business sales increased one per cent in December and only 2.4 per cent during the year.

In 1974, business sales had increased 14 per cent.

Since rising 1.8 per cent in October, wholesale prices showed no change in November and declined an adjusted fourtenths of a per cent in December. Over the past three months, they have declined at an adjusted annual rate of 1.7 per cent.

Burlison defends Social Security

MALDEN — Tenth District Rep. Bill D. Burlison of Cape Girardeau described reports of Social Security's pending doom and bankruptcy as "nonsense" Thursday in an address before the Malden Culture Club.

Burlison countered recent attacks on the Social Security system by noting that they "are consistent in that they are made up of half-truths and sometimes outright falsehoods."

Burlison cited recent studies, both government and private, that reaffirm the basic soundness of the nation's retirement and disability insurance program.

"Those who know social Security best," he said, "those who work with it, study it and plan for its future, all agree on one thing: the system is working and it is sound."

Burlison went on to discuss the causes of Social Security's recent deficits and noted that while a financial readjustment is required, it is easily manageable and there is certainly no cause for alarm. The basic problem, he said, is to determine the most equitable means of increasing revenues.

"Social Security has always met its commitments in the past and will continue to do so in the future.I think it safe to say," concluded Burlison, "that Social Security will be around for a long time to come. Social Security, after all, is as sound as the United States government."

Advance to vote on bonds

ADVANCE — Voters in the Advance school district will cast ballots March 16 on a $500,000 bond issue for a proposed building program, Supt. Floyd Liley said today.

If approved, 10,000- square foot additions will be added to both the present elementary and high school buildings.

Liley said the high school addition will be for vocational-educational facilities.

Tank contract authorized

SCOTT CITY — The City Council Thursday night authorized a $62,800 contract to be drawn for the purchase of a 100,000- gallon water storage tank.

The other party to the contract is Security Tank Co. of Memphis, Tenn. The contract includes the tank at a cost of $57,000, a concrete foundation pad at a cost of $5,000 and a safty cable to run along side the ladder of the tower at a cost of $800.

Don Johnson, representing Security Tank Co., said that as soon as the contract is received, the tank and tower will be dismantled and should arrive within a week.

Bertrand sets filing deadline

BERTRAND — Two aldermanic positions are open for the April 13 election in Bertrand.

The filing deadline will be March 21. One alderman will be selected in ward one and one in ward two. Each will serve a two-year term. Candidates must file with the city clerk.

4 injured, 2 seriously

Two young women were seriously injured and two persons received lesser injuries in three area traffic accidents Thursday, the highway patrol reported today.

A single- car accident at 4 p.m. Thursday on Highway 21, one- quarter mile north of the Missouri- Arkansas state line, caused serious injuries to the driver, Thresa D. Duffey, 17, of Poyner, and a passenger, Meggie A. Hulen, 18, of Warm Springs, Ark.

Miss Duffey was taken to Lucy Lee Hospital in Poplar Bluff, and Miss Hulen was taken to Ripley County Hospital at Doniphan.

A motorcycle - pickup collision at 3:50 p.m. Thursday on a county road eight miles south of Marquand resulted in moderate injuries to the motorcycle driver Larry Lakies, 16, of Marquand.

The accident occurred when Lakies rounded a curve on the wrong side of the road and his northbound motorcycle collided with a southbound pickup driven by Donna Mouser, 21, of Marquand.

Another single- car accident at 10:40 p.m. on Highway 67, three miles north of Coldwater, resulted in minor injuries to the driver.

The accident occurred when Brenda Sadlin, 30, of Arnold apparently lost control of her southbound car on wet pavement and the vehicle slid off the road and struck a wooden fence.

She also was taken to the Madison County hospital.

Charges pending

CHARLESTON — A charge of burglary is pending against an 18-year-old Charleston youth in connection with the theftof a radio and three sets of keys Thursday night from the office of Police Chief Bob Ritchey.

Ritchey said Jimmy Wyatt was arrested for investigation of the theft shortly before 8 a.m. today at his home and was released pending issuance of a warrant.

Wyatt and Tommy Vinson, 17, of Charleston reportedly were at the police department with Ricky Bone, 18, of Charleston, who had been arrested about 10:15 p.m. Thursday for driving while intoxicated.

Wyatt and Vinson were sitting in a hallway near Ritchey's office, and allegedly Wyatt entered the unlocked door and took the keys and radio.

The keys were found this morning outside the back door of the police station and the radio was recovered near the old city hall, across the street from the police department.

No charges are pending against Vinson.

Man held for Sunday's theft

The arrest of Johnny Ray Smith, 29, of 245 Harry St. has solved a Sunday night burglary at SeMo Motor Co., 417 N. Main St., according to Police Detective Sgt. Dan Hinton.

Smith was taken into custody Monday afternoon and is being held under $1,000 bond on a charge of burglary and stealing.

Smith allegedly took $1,000 worth of tools, 12 tires, $20 in cash, two outboard motors and an outboard motor gasoline tank from the automobile company in the four separate times he entered the building.

The two outboard motors were reported stolen in the Sunday night burglary, but Hinton said they were actually taken about a month ago and the theft was not discovered until this week. The motors were recovered Wednesday in Bardwell, Ky.

Hinton said the value of the tools previously had been overestimated and were worth $1,000, instead of the $2,000 initially reported.

Election commission director asked to disclose finances

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—The new executive director of the Missouri Elections Commission should make a public disclosure of his financial holdings, the head of Common Cause in Missouri has urged.

In a letter to the six-member commission, Ted Stein asked the commission to use eight standards in considering potential successors to resigning commission director Albert Kemp.

The commission has scheduled initial interviews of director candidates during its meeting here today and will conduct another session Saturday to discuss other business.

The self-styled citizens lobby said public financial disclosure by the commission's choice for director is needed because "the public must have confidence that the commission's chief staff member will not be compromised by his own financial interests."

In proposing the set of standards, Stein said Common Cause was not trying to tie the commission's hands in the selection process, "but rather to help ensure that the new executive director enjoys public confidence and is an effective enforcement agent."

In addition to asking for financial disclosure by the new director, Common Cause said whoever is selected should pledge to hold no political party office while serving as director, promise not to represent any outside interests before government agencies, agree not to appear before the commission for at least two years after he leaves office and pledge to "vigorously" enforce provisions of the new campaign spending law.

Common Cause also said all the candidates for director should be asked what steps they would take to increase public understanding of the campaign law as well as to boost compliance with its provisions, how they believe the state's far-reaching open meetings law applies to commission meetings and records and what penalties they would seek against candidates who failed to comply with the law.

"We believe that prospective executive directors should pledge themselves to high standards of openness and accountability," Stein worote, "and be required to discuss in specific terms their plans for enforcing the campaign act.

Kemp announced his resignation to enter private business last month, apparently at the commission's request because it was dissatisfied with his performance. Kemp claimed he had been hampered in his job because of lack of funding.

DOWN A BAD ROAD

Spokesmen for the electric light and power industry have repeatedly warned that the technology does not yet exist to permit full compliance with environmental protection standards relative to power plant emissions. They have asked for modification of these standards until technology can catch up. The alternative they have said, will be a worsening of the energy shortage far as electric power is concerned.

These warnings have been substantiated by a staff report of the Federal Power Commission (EPC), which declares that by 1975 electric power supply reserves will be critically deficient in 7 out of 9 electric reliability areas, if continued adherence to Environmental Protection Agency air quality standards is enforced. The report states that needed electric energy reserves usually range from 15 to 25 per cent. Unless environmental standards requirements are modified, these reserve figures will be reduced to 7.4 per cent by 1975. The areas hardest hit will be the East Central Region where reserves will drop from plus 23.1 per cent to minus 27.3 per cent, the Mid- American Pool where reserves are expected to drop from plus 17.3 per cent to minus 14.4 per cent and the Southeastern area where the drop is expected to be from plus 14.4 per cent to a minus 0.9 per cent. The FPC report also stated, "Technology for stack gas scrubbing has not yet demonstrated a reliability compatible with the needs of electric utility operation and, even if prudent to install, industrial capacity to construct scrubbers is insufficient to attain needed coverage..."

The EPC report recommended a pollution control system other than scrubbers for near- term emission controls. Adherence to inflexible environmental standards at the price of reduced energy supplies, which are the key to preserving a livable environment, is a clear example of self- destructive extremism.

STUPIDITY OF AIRING U.S. INTELLIGENCE
By DON OAKLEY

No other country has ever, or could ever, go thrugh the kind of public airing of its intelligence apparatus as the United States has in the past few months. Such a thing would be totally unimaginable in the Soviet Union, and not much more conceivable even in the European democracies.

There is no question that in the kind of world we live in, the U.S. must maintain an effective, dependable—and secure—intelligence system.

But while the Congress, the administration and the CIA ponder just how this is to be accomplished, while at the same time giving the people, through their representatives, better oversight and control over the secret undertakings of the government than they have hitherto had, it is essential that we keep this whole matter of intelligence in perspective.

The best intelligence apparatus in the world is utterly useless if those empowered to act upon the information it provides fail to do so, or with it away, or distort it to make it conform to desired policy or preconceived notions.

Our own recent history provides more than a few examples of this.

Before World War II, the U.S. possessed that dream of all espionage agents, the ability to read the enemy's diplomatic code; in this case the potential enemy was Japan.

Yet during the latter days of 1941, when it was obvious that the Japanese were planning an attack this knowledge was ignored or disbelieved.

Again, in the Vietnam War, the U.S. had abundant and reliable forewarning of the Communist Tet offensive of 1967. But this information was suppressed because it ran counter to what some people wanted to believe, or wanted the country to believe. And again the penalty was the unnecessary loss of many American, as well as Vietnamese, lives.

For all the reputed brilliance of then-Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara and others directing the war, the nation could have been just as well, or as ill, served if someone had simply stood blindfolded and thrown darts at a list of options.

We must also make the distinction between intelligence gathering, which is absolutely vital and not in dispute in the current discussion, and covert activities aimed at changing certain realities we don't like.

The CIA's role in the overthrow of President Allende of Chile, its alleged assassination plots against various national leaders, its secret financial support of anti-Communist politicians, however anti-democratic they may be, its violations of its charter prohibiting domestic spying, its booby-trapped Castro cigars—the list runs the gamut from the obscene to the ludicrous—all these activities have done more to harm America's real interests and to undermine its security than one can conceive happening if we had no intelligence apparatus at all.

Despite all the soul-searching in Washington these days, the question facing Americans is not really that of how a democracy can have an accountable yet effective intelligence system, without running the risk of constant, damaging leaks of secret information.

Nor is it a matter of the quality or reliability of our intelligence people, although there are also instances of their wrongly evaluating data or having been caught napping.

Rather, the question, as it has been throughout history, is the uses or misuses to which a nation puts its intelligence establishment and the military and political information it acquires. And that, of course, ultimately depends upon the wisdom and integrity—nay, the plain common sense—of its leaders.

That requirement alone is enough to give us serious causes for concern about the safety of this Republic

HOT IDEAS TO CUT RISING FUEL BILLS
By DON OAKLEY

Not only has the high cost of housing placed home ownership out of reach for millions of Americans, but many people who already own homes are finding the cost of running them taking increasingly large chunks out of their household budgets.

Addressing a meeting of the National Association of Home Builders in Dallas the other day, Guy O. Mabry, vice president of Owens-Corning Fiberglass Corp., cited the case of a New Jersey homeowner whose annual fuel bills were almost as high as his mortgage payments and warned that "heating and cooling a house may soon become a luxury, unless the nation's builders take immediate steps to effectively reduce home energy consumption."

Mabry calls for a home energy efficiency rating system, similar to Detroit's miles-per-gallon designation, to help consumers. Just as m.p.g. has become the watchword of new car buyers, "e.p.m." (energy-per-month) costs are fast becoming the major concern of today's new home buyer, he says.

For starters, a doubling of current Federal Housing Administration minimum standards for insulation in attics, walls and floors "would have an immediate impact in lowering home energy consumption."

This, of course, would mean more business for the makers of insulation and less business for the energy utilities. But the latter are in little danger of running out of customers for all the energy they can provide in the foreseeable future.

There are also other energy-saving steps builders can take, such as double-paned windows, insulated doors with magnetic weatherstripping and tighter construction to reduce air infiltration.

Nor need the low "e.p.m." house cost more, says Mabry. For instance, the use of 2-by-6 studs on 24-inch centers, instead of the traditional 2-by-4 studs on 16-inch centers, would both accommodate thicker insulation and save significantly on lumber costs.

In addition, because of a more efficient "thermal envelope," heating, ventilating and air-conditioning equipment could be a much lower capacity.

There is a public as well as a private stake in the more efficient use of our energy resources.

Taxpayers are turning down bond issues. Schools are closed to community use during off-hours. Public buildings must close early. Not all of this is due to the cost of energy, to be sure, but energy is an important factor.

It will take ingenuity if money-short communities are to survive this era of scarce and expensive energy, and architects and builders are, in fact, developing new concepts in structural design, furnishing and maintenance to meet the challenge, as well as making more use of old ones.

The substitution of plastic plumbing pipe for metal can save a substantial amount of energy because plastics require only a fraction of the energy it takes to produce metal products.

The insulating properties of carpeting can save up to an eighth of heating fuel requirements. Substitution of fluorescent lights for incandescent bulbs cuts down on electrical consumption and lighting cost.

Buildings with exteriors of mirror glass can bring about a 44 per cent heat reduction. Heat-transfer systems are being designed coupling air-conditioning and heating units to pump warm or cold air from areas where it is not needed to those where it is.

Then there is the use of solar energy for heating and cooling, the possibilities of which we have scarcely begun to explore.

DEMONSTRATING THEIR IGNORANCE
By DON OAKELY

The voice of demonstfator is once again heard in the land, though it is but the faintest echo of what it was at the height of the Vietnam conflict.

While small contingents of demonstrators have picketed or paraded in various cities against U.S. involvement in Angola, there have been no demonstrations in front of the United Nations-which would probably do no good but which might possibly serve to remind that body which country is the real troublemaker in Africa.

As usual, of course, the Soviet Union remains immune from criticism by our native moralists.

Something called "The American Committee on Africa" has urged in newspaper advertisements that Americans "Act Now. Organize. Demonstrate...Tell Congress to cut off all funds for the Angola intervention."

There once was a "Fair Play for Cuba" committee, organized by admirers of that great human liberator, Fidel Castro. There is today, however, no such thing as a "Fair Play for Angola Committee," despite the fact that some 10,000 Cuban troops, under Soviet auspices, are killing Angolas in Angola.

There are any number of reasons why Americans are not about to permit their country to become embroiled in Angola's civil war, and none of them has anything to do with the inane, outworn and pathetic chants of the demonstrators against American "imperialism."

The Angola protestors are not only whipping a dead horse but one that was never even alive.

VETO VARIABLES

Congress has pigeonholed the common situs picketing bill, following its veto by President Ford, and if history runs true to form it will not be resurrected during this administration.

From George Washington to Richard Nixon, American presidents cast 2,257 vetoes, and only about six per cent of them were overidden by Congress, says John R. Lee, a political scientist at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University.

Among Lee's other findings, as reported in Human Behavior magazine:

The use of the veto has been on the increase since the Civil War.

—Democrats use it more than Republicans (Grover Cleveland and Franklin D. Roosevelt have been the biggest veto-wielders).

—Presidents who are elected with substantial electoral vote majorities use the veto more often than others.

—Congress tends to override vetoes more often when times are bad.

Also, the study indicates that presidents who spent many years in Congress before rising to the chief executive's office were generally less inclined to veto, perhaps as a result of the respect they gained for that body.

This last bit of veto lore, as well as some of the other statistics, will have to be updated in light of the Ford administration's record.

Gerald Ford, a Republican, not only spent 25 years in the House of Representatives, but as our first unelected President had no electoral vote majority at all and certainly has presided over bad times.

Yet in his first full year in office, he used the veto on some 16 bills, only three of which were overridden by Congress.

WHY PIONEERS WERE GOOD MARKSMEN

With the nation's 200th anniversary coming up in 1976, there has been speculation on why so many of the pioneers were crack shots, even though they used what appear to us to be primitive weapons.

That's easy.

When a man went into the wilderness with a muzzle loading, single-shot gun and met an angry, attacking grizzly, panther, wolf or other man-killer, he usually got one shot only.

If he killed his atacker, he returned home to demonstrate his marksmanship in neighborhood shooting contests. If he missed--he never had the chance.

Another case of the survival of the fittest. We never heard any more from the poor shots.

NOT WANTED HERE

With St. Louis city jails overcrowded, some of those being held are being placed in county and city jails over the state, some as far away as around St. Joseph.

None were taken in at the Monroe County jail for various reasons, and Monroe Countians, especially residents of Paris, are glad Sheriff Mason didn't agree to board any of them.

The older residents too well remember the prohibition and bootleg days when at one time as many as 20 or 25 law violators from St. Louis were housed here. They practically took the jail apart. At least once, some of them escaped. At other times their friends were general nuisances, insisting on long visits with prisoners, bringing in all sorts of food and articles, crowding the front yard of the courthouse and talking to prisoners on the fourth floor as they looked out the windows of the jail, sometimes using language that was offensive to passersby.

It was neither a pleasant, nor a profitable experience, and our county is doing very well without them, thanks to Sheriff Mason.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: NASA's fishing expedition with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON— A top space official, who went salmon fishing last year with Boeing big-wigs, tried afterward to award his fishing companions a "wasteful," $200,000 contract.

The inside story is told in confidential memos from the files of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

The memos identify the obliging space official as Jack A. Jones, a quality control chief based in Houston. He was taken fishing by corporate executives during a visit to Boening's Seattle headquarters.

Another space official, Joseph H. Levine, was included on the fishing trip but played no part in seeking the $200,000 contract for his hosts.

The incident was turned into stark drama when the complainant, James Maxwell, suddenly died of a heart attack after he brought the scandal to the attention of NASA investigators. Friends say his diligence in pressing the investigation helped bring on the fatal attack.

Maxwell was upset because his name was listed as the NASA engineer who had requested the $200,000 contract. The money was supposed to be spent for research equipment that he thought was unnecessary. According to a confidential report, he saw "absolutely no need for this purchase request" and considered it "wasteful to spend (the) money."

It was Jones, not Maxwell, who sought the $200,000 contract for Boeing, the documents charge. He allegedly began pushing for the contract immediately after he returned from the fishing trip with Boeing executives.

The outraged Maxwell complained that the use of his name "implicates me in a violation of law." He died before NASA completed its investigtion, which resulted in cancelling the contract. Jones and Levine got off, however, with a mild reprimand.

Footnote: A NASA spokesman confirmed that Jones and Levine were entertained by Boeing on the fishing trip and acknowledged that Jones had sought a $200,000 contract for Boeing after his return. Norman Wynn, one of the Boeing hosts on the salmon excursion, confirmed that it took place, called the affair "insignificant" and hung up on our reporter, Marc Smolonsky. Jones and Levine did not return our calls.

SURVEILLANCE SUBSIDY: When local policemen or prosecutors need special help to spy on alleged criminals, they turn to Uncle Sam for help. During the past seven years, the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) has responded with unusual generosity.

The agency has distributed a staggering total of $160.8 million to support 1,929 intelligence-related projects around the country. The figures were provided to Chairwoman Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., whose Government Information subcommittee is investigating fgederal snooping.

Approximately $2.5 million dollars was earmarked directly for the "purchase of electronic surveillance equipment," according to the LEAA report provided to Abzug.

Incredibly, $1.3 million of the bugging equipment went to states which either prohibited wiretaps or had no specific laws on buggingh.

California, for example, outlaws wiretapping except in unique circumstances. Yet, the federal government gave California authorities $98,596 for sophisticated surveillance equipment.

The California Department of Justice acquired, among other things, ten "beeper" systems, which allow police to follow vehicles at a distance, 15 voice-activated tape recorders, 36 miniature microphones and headsets, and five "intelligence kits" at $2,500 apiece.

Other states which prohibited wiretaps at the time they received their LEAA grants -- Illinois, Kentucky, Louisiana, Michigan and North Carolina -- were supplied with body transmitters, auto tracking devices, and other unspecified "technical surveillance equipment."

Even when money is doled out to states where wiretapping is legal, there is little method to LEAA's mad giveaway. Official bugging is legal, for example, in New Jersey. Ther state authorities spent $206,093 in federal funds to buy eavesdropping equipment to handle 808 authorized wiretaps.

But, the report noted, there was "no correlation between the number of wiretap authorizations and the amount of funds expended for electronic surveillance equipment."

Clearly, LEAA exhibits little control over the local spending and use of the equipment. The report points out, in fact, that 25 states simply refused to provide LEAA with an itemized breakdown for the bugging equipment bought with LEAA money.

PRESIDENTIAL ODDS: Jimmy "The Greek" Snyder, our political oddsmaker, rates President Ford a runaway favorite to win the Republican nomination, with Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., his most likely opponent.

Ford's nomination is such a safe bet, in Jimmy's book, that a betting man would have to put up $3 on the President to win $1.

Anyone wishing to take a risk on Ronald Reagan, on the other hand, could collect $7 on a $2bet. Third in the GOP ratings, at 8 to 1 odds, is Vice President Nelson Rockefeller.

Humphrey is a 2 to 1 favorite to win the Democratic presidential nomination. In other words, a $1 bet would be worth $2 if he is nominated.

He is followed by Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., 4 to 1; Georgia's ex-Gov. Jimmy Carter, 5 to 1; Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., 8 to 1; and Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., 10 to 1.

Alabama's Gov. George Wallace and Texas' Sen. Lloyd Bentsen are far behind, as Jimmy the Greek calculates the odds, with only a 20 to 1 chance of winning the nomination. The other Democratic aspirants are 25 to 1 long shots, except for ex-Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., and Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., whom Jimmy gives only a 50 to 1 chance.

Nuclear Nerves: Neo-Radicals have own central intelligence communes

WASHINGTON— Suddenly the spectre of a nuclear ripoff by terrorists here and abroad is being taken seriously.

Warnings spring from a prestigious London institute study and from Paris police. Heavy armored tanks and newly beefed-up squads of guards now protect the vast Nevada test site near Las Vegas. Alarms are sounded in confidential reports of the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

The American Enterprise Institute and FBI director Clarence Kelley say the nation must learn to live with terror. Their quiet cautioning words spring from the possibility of small amounts of refined bomb-grade nuclear material being stolen and made into a crude atomic weapon.

The Massachusetts Commission on Nuclear Safety now demands that the state's two nuclear power plants immediately must be more securely protected.

Thus the sentiment of ex-CIA director William Colby becomes intensely significant for the public, and if Sen. Frank Church can take time out of counting possible Democratic convention delegates, they must be pondered by him, too.

Bill Colby said, in effect, that neither he nor "the elephant" (CIA) is harassed too much by what the KGB will learn from intelligence exposures. It's the undisciplined do-it-themselves extremist radicals who worry him.

What national secrets can be kept if at least 24 Senators, 150 Conressmen and about 100 members of their staffs are briefed on ultra-classified information by Henry Kissinger (as he did) or a like amount by Colby?

This gets to the crux of the problem of ever-escalating radicalization. Once there were the Weather People. They had their days of wrath. Now in their "safe houses" they talk of winning greater followings by more peaceful propaganda against the establishment. So they drift into the background, melt into the crowd and claim only an occasional bomb.

But this doesn't mean a "central" has given orders or has the power, even the connections, to send down a directive to cool the bombings. There is no "central." There are many "central" commands. One specialist says, "This is the classic guerrilla cell structure."

And it has wafted up from the Argentine where the hits on industrial targets grow more grim each year. The Weather People have been replaced, many believe, by the little-known New World Liberation Front. It's said to be many fronts -- an "umbrella" structure. The Front claimed 14 bombings in California last year and promises many more. There were other bands. One in Denver bombed a bank, a federal building and one other target.

How do the cells survive? They have "the paper escape--(false identification). Originally an SDS phrase, now commonly used.

Fronts such as these are the activists. They too must have sources of intelligence. These are available.

The "information" comes from the more sophisticated, more intellectual radicals. The "mental" type given to less strenuous radicalization. So we go down the action ladder to the urban guerrilla's own central intelligence apparatus.

Whether or not the data is deliberately culled and published in many forms for the activists, no one can prove. Sufficient to report the central intelligence systems do operate what is known as "rearch collectives." And the young men and women who operate them are bright. They are as cynical as they are skilled. With amusement they create councils, projects, special study groups -- the whole lot. And then successfully solicit grants from some of the most prestigious foundations for sums up to $25,000.

They don't go in for bombings or days of rage. They have their own passions – some very private. But their intelligence research is hurled at the "structure" by the fronts.

One such suspect group, according to a federal document, actually obtained a second generation computer. Its original cost was over $500,000. Today it's worth anywhere between $175,000 and $350,000. It is described as "bite-oriented, 64,000 words in each 24 bites; a storage capacity of 67 million elements per disk."

Program it to expose the CIA, the FBI or National Security Council operations and it becomes the basis for spilling the nation's inner guts. But there's more to the research collectives than computers. They know their research techniques all the way down the line. One of their favorite bits is the use of "Who's Who." From there you can go anywhere.

Most of the collectives are peopled by anti-establishment amateur Marxists. Meaning dedication to the destruction of all classes except the proletariat. And that's where some of those congressional investigative committees should start – with the reading of Hegel polished off by Marx. Old Karl meant it. The collectives mean it. Perhaps this nation must learn to live with the collectives. But why give them a free ride?

Improved gas applicances save energy and money

Almost everyone recognizes the necessity to preserve vital natural resources. And virtually everyone feels the need to cut down on fuel bills to save money.

One way to accomplish both objectives is to replace gas and electric appliances with new energy-saving gas models.

According to the National LP-Gas Association, Chicago, recent innovations in gas ranges, gas water heaters, gas clothes dryers and gas-fired heaters and air conditioners make them more economical than ever before. Newer models consume less fuel and therefore, cost less to operate. In many instances, they're smaller, lighter, more trouble-free and longer-lasting.

Gas-burning appliances are capable of using either natural gas or propane--a liquefied petroleum (LP) gas commonly employed on farms, in small towns, in suburbia and in other areas "beyond the mains." Inexpensive and efficient, propane offers the additional benefit of being easily stored and transported, hence its widespread use in motor homes, house trailers and recreational vehicles.

In every home, there are several major opportunities to conserve energy and reduce household expenses, says the NLPGA. These include cooking, drying clothes, heating (for water), and heating and cooling the living space.

COOKING

Among the most dramatic improvements in kitchen appliances has been the introduction of "pilotless" gas ranges.

Older gas ranges required the continuous burning of a pilot light, which ignited each of the individual cooking units on demand. Fully 30 per cent of all the gas consumed by these older models was consumed by the ever-burning pilot light.

"Pilotless" models now on the market include an electronic ignition system which makes it unnecessary to have a pilot light. The result is less fuel consumption, and hence, less operating cost.

Other recent innovations in gas ranges include improved burners which do not produce the energy loss of older models, and ovens which perform more satisfactorily, yet require less heat than the older units. The improved burners are able to reduce fuel consumption by as much as 39 per cent; the new ovens, by as much as 23 per cent.

Since it costs less to cook with gas than it does to cook with electricity, the potential savings really add up, says the NLPGA. In an area of the country where the gas rate is 14 cents per thermal unit and the electric rate is 4-½ cents per kilowatt hour, a home preparing 30 meals a month will save about $35 a year by cooking with gas.

(The NLPGA has prepared a helpful "Energy Cost Chart" to help you compare the cost of various fuels in your own community. A free copy can be obtained by writing National LP-Gas Association, 79 West Monroe Street, Chicago, Ill. 60603.)

CLOTHES DRYING

Similar electronic ignition systems are now being offered in gas clothes dryers--another area in which substantial energy-and cost-saving improvements are possible.

In the same region of the country as that quoted in the previous example (i.e., where gas rates are 14 cents per thermal unit and electric rates are 4-½ cents per KWH), a household using one of the new gas dryers for four loads of washing per week will spend about $3.60 a year on fuel costs, whereas a household using electricity will spend about $28.30 annually.

HEATING WATER

One other major energy-user in the home is the water heater. But today's newer models have better insulation, better flue baffling and better fuel input ratings than the older models. The result is a water heater that consumes 11 per cent less energy than the older models--at a significant savings in operating cost.

One manufacturer estimates that a new 40-gallon gas water heater will save the owner approximately $450 over the 10-year life span of the appliance.

HEATING

Newer, direct-vented gas space heaters are 5 to 30 per cent less expensive to operate than older, conventionally-vented models which are equipped with draft diverters. The reason is that less room heat is exhausted--and thereby wasted--outdoors.

Other fuel economies can be achieved by using radiant heating in lieu of or in addition to forced air heating, and by using a greater number of smaller heaters in order to achieve better heat distribution.

Clean-burning gas--either natural or LP (propane)--is far less expensive than electricity for home heating, and in many parts of the country can compete favorably with fuel oil and even coal on a cost basis. (The NLPGA has prepared a list of ways in which to winterize your home for greatest heating efficiency. A free copy can be obtained by writing National LP-Gas Association, 79 West Monroe St., Chicago, Illinois 60603.)

AIR CONDITIONING

Twenty years ago, a typical three-ton, home-sized air conditioning system cost about $1,600. A modern unit costs less than $1,200.

Considering that a 1955 dollar would have only 50 cents' worth of buying power today, the 20-year-old system actually cost the purchaser nearly three times what a comparable unit costs today.

In 1955, most air conditioning installations also included a cooling tower--a combination of equipment that weighed close to 2,700 pounds. Today's three-ton gas air conditioning system which no longer requires a cooling tower, weighs about 550 pounds--or more than a ton less than its 20-year-old predecessor.

The 1955 air conditioner required about 108 cubic feet of space, plus an additional 73.5 cubic feet for the cooling tower. Today's unit can go in a total area of 26.25 cubic feet.

Whether it's for heating and cooling, cooking, clothes drying, or heating water, new gas appliances are a better buy than ever before, advises the NLPGA. They consume less fuel than older models, either gas or electric, and provide savings in two ways: They conserve critical fossil fuels and reduce household operating costs.

Bess Truman turns 91

INDEPEDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Bess Truman celebrates her 91st birthday today.

The former First Lady is in remarkably good health, close friends say. She moves about with a cane she has used since being troubled by arthritis several years ago.

The same quiet celebration Mrs. Truman has preferred in years past was indicated for this observance — flowers and telephone calls from family and friends.

"The house will be full of flowers and she'll get a call from Margaret (Truman Daniel, Mrs. Truman's daughter)," said Mary F. Wallace, Mrs. Truman's sister-in-law. Mrs. Wallace expected to visit Mrs. Truman because "we always exchange gifts."

Mrs. Ardis Haukenberry, a cousin of Harry Truman and one of Mrs. Truman's closest friends, said: "I told Bess I wasn't going to send her a birthday card because I knew she would answer it. So I just call her with my birthday wish."

Demurely simple or lavishly romantically ruffled. Choose the long or short version and draw lots of attention in this graceful shape.

Siamese twin snatched by father moments before state takes custody

The father, Willie L. Cates, 22, took one of the baby girls from the nursery at St. Joseph Hospital, pushed aside a nurse and fled from the hospital, authorities said.

The twins, Millie Lula and Anna Marie, were to be picked up today by social workers for the Kansas Department of Social and Rehabilitation Services on orders of Juvenile Court Judge Michael Corrigan.

Corrigan said a petition was filed in juvenile court Wednesday alleging the twins had been abandoned by their mother, Ruth Ann Cates, 31, and that the mother was mentally and emotionally incapable of assuming responsiblity for their care.

Jim Reed, a spokesman for St. Joseph Hospital, said Cates was called today by nursers caring for the twins and told state social workers were taking the children into temporary custody pending juvenile court hearings.

Cates came to the nursery to say good-bye to the children, Reed added.

"He said he wanted to help dress them," Reed said. "He took both children in his arms to hold them and then with a sudden motion, he tossed Anna Marie on a bed, pushed the nurses out of the way and ran from the nursery."

Cates cluthced Millie Lula to his chest as he dashed past security guards and ran down two flights of stairs and out an exit to a waiting car, Reed said.

Reed said hospital officials immediately called police and gave them a description of the car and the father.

The twin girls were born Nov. 7 joined at the abdomen. They were the 20th pair of Siamese twins successfully separated by urgeons in medical history, when a team of 12 doctors severed the joining flesh and a portion of liver shared by the two girls.

Hospital officials said the twins have made an excellent recovery from the surgery Jan. 26 and were ready to leave the hospital when the incident occurred today.

Husband in drag startles spouse

Dear Ann Landers: I came home from a trip two days early. When I walked into the apartment I found my husband dressed in my best evening gown. He was wearing my fanciest jewelry, also my wig. When I tell you I nearly died of the shock, you can believe it.

Without saying a word, he handed me a column of yours that appeared a few years back. (I never saw it, but obviously he did.) "This will explain everything," he said, and left the room.

Here is the column, but it doesn't "explain everything." Please add some words I can hang on to while I'm trying to keep my sanity. – Marge

Dear Ann: A nice young man was arrested recently because he was wearing women's clothing while sitting in a public park. Someone started a fight with him and he flattened the guy.

As a fashion historian I can tell you that everything women wear today was once worn by males. Even corsets. During the Crusades, when men donned suits of armor they had to wear heavy undergarments to protect their bodies against the chafing of the metal. Christopher Columbus wore bloomers and long stockings. George Washington wore lace blouses and carried a silk handkerchief in his sleeve. He also wore a ribbon in his hair. Men's high heels are not new. They go back to the French Revolution. Even in the bird kingdom the male's plumage is fancier than the female's. The peacock is the best example.

So please, Ann, tell your readers that before they classify a person as "peculiar" they should stop and consider the possibility that he may be a man ahead of his time" -- F.H.

Dear Marge: Your husband may well be "a man ahead of his time" but for now you must accept the fact that he is a transvestite.

Some behavioral specialists say all transvestites are practicing homosexuals. Other say they're not – that they get their jollies dressing up, and that's as far as they go.

You offer no information about your husband's habits, his friends, how long you've been married or whether you could tolerate this sort of thing if he dressed up only at home.

I hope you discuss this matter with a therapist before you make any decisions. I'm not suggesting that your husband accompany you for counseling because transvestites aren't interested in changing. The best you can expect is that he will agree not to appear in drag in your presence, if you ask him not to.

Dear Ann Landers: Frequently you advise students to go to their school guidance counselors with their problems. I teach in college. Frequently I hear students speak very disparagingly of their high-school guidance counselors. The most common complaint is that they blab.

If you continue to advise students to confide in their guidance counselors, I hope you will advise counselors to keep their mouths shut. -- Disillusioned

Dear D.: Such betrayal is unconscionable and inexcusable. Any counselor who blabs should be sacked immediately -- assuming, of course, that the evidence is conclusive.

Lilbourn rallies to win 74-70

Hornet upset bid falls short

By BILL HARRISON

ADVANCE--- The heavily favored Lilbourn Panthers ran into a hustling, determined undermanned Advance Hornet team here Thursday night and barely came out of the game alive with a hard fought 74-70 victory.

It was the first meeting of the two defending state champions in their respective classes and the game livened up to the pregame billing as the Advance defense was pitted against the high powered Lilbourn offense led by Frankie Robinson.

Advance was without Steve Cookson, their starting guard who was at home in bed with a case of hepatitis, but coach Carroll Cookson devised a new offense which seems to be faster moving and the scores of the last two games have reflected their speed in the final scores.

The game started slowly as neither team could get offensively untracked in the first couple of minutes, but after a see-saw battle the Advance Hornets roared to a quick 13-8 lead which they never relinquished until there was less than three minutes left in the game. Ronnie Veal fouled out of the game with Advance ahead by three points 65-62 and Robinson quickly went to work and erased the advantage.

Veale played Robinson man to man and jammed up the high scoring all-stater with his quick hands through the first three quarters and a half.

Advance's talented sophomore Mark Robins ran into foul trouble early trying to defense the big men inside for Lilbourn and coach JCookson had to dip into his thin bench for a replacement. This gave the Panthers yet another advantage but nevertheless they couldn't get enough baskets to close the gap to more than three points until late in the third period.

Veale kept the Hornets out in front most of the first half with his outside push shots which were on target and junior Lonnie Daniels, who perhaps played his best game of his career, worked inside for the offensive rebounds, putting up the easy layups and doing a yeoman job on the defensive boards.

Advance led by five points until a shot from 30 feet was hit in desperation as the buzzer sounded to pull the Panthers to within three, 23-20 at the close of the first quarter.

With four Advance starters distributing the scoring among themselves in the second quarter the Hornets enjoyed a six point, 44-38 halftime lead.

Advance came out in the second half a little cold offensively but still managed to take a 56-50 lead before Lilbourn scored four straight points to trail by only two 56-54.

Lilbourn didn't catch up until Don Treadwell scored a layup with 5:08 left in the game to give the Panthers a 62-61 advantage. The lead changed hands several times the next few minutes until there was 1:35 left and the score was tied 70-70.

Advance threw the ball away a couple of times after that and Lilbourn was able to cash in on freethrows the rest of the remaining time for the win.

Advance outscored the Panthers from the field 28-26 but Lilbourn hit 22 of 25 freethrows to 16 of 23 for Advance.

Frankie Robinson led Lilbourn with 24 points followed by Jim Baker with 15 and Don Treadwell with 14.

Advance was led by Terry Hill with 19, Steve Vavak and Ronnie Veale with 16 apiece and Lonnie Daniels with 13.

Senath- Hornersville moves into finals of Dunklin Co. Tourney

MALDEN — Senath- Hornersville will send both their A and B teams into the finals of the Dunklin County Tournament Saturday night as both teams picked up semifinal victories Thursday evening. The Lions' jayvee squad tripped Clarkton 58-41, and the varsity followed suit with a 68-48 win over Southland.

Clarkton's B team stayed close to Senath in the first quarter before the stronger Lion squad began to pull away in the second quarter. Senath- Hornersville had a 30-21 halftime lead and added to it by four in each of the third and fourth quarters.

Johnson fired in 19 to lead the Lions, while Duckworth added 13 and Jenkins scored 12. Eight players scored for Clarkton, but none were in double figures.

In the varsity contest, Senath again broke the game wide open in the second quarter after hold a less- than comfortable lead after the opening frame. The Lion outscored Southland 39-20 over the middle two periods as they roared to any easy victory and into the finals.

Ralph Armour scored 17 to lead the Senath- Hornersville attack that saw ten players get in on the scoring action. Robert Duckworth added 14 and Ralph Droke threw in 10.

Semifinal round play concludes tonight as Malden meets Southland in a junior varsity game at 6:30, followed by a varsity battle between Clarkton and Malden at 8:00. The tournament will end Saturday night with the consolation and championship games.

Winter games continue

INNSBRUCK (AP) — Canada's Kathy Kreiner edged Rosi Mittermaier by 12-hundredths of a second, ending the West German's bid for an unprecedented sweep of the three women's Alpine skiing events. And the United States, blanked through the first three events of the day, waited in expectation of a gold medal performance by Dorothy Hamill tonight at the 12th Winter Olympics.

Jan Egil Storholt of Norway won the gold medal in the 1,500-meter speed skating and the Soviet Union picked up a gold in the 30-kilometer (18.6 miles) biathlon relay as these Games moved through the next-to-last full day of competition.

Also scheduled for today were the first two of four runs in the four-man bobsled event and three Group B hockey games.

With only the figure skating remaining among the finals on today's schedule, the Soviet Union led the medal standings with 12 gold and 26 total medals, followed by East Germany with six gold and 15 medals over-all.

The United States was third with two golds and a total of nine, three short of its all-time total of 12 won in 1932 at Lake Placid, N.Y. Prospects for breaking that record dimmed considerably today when Americans failed to crack the top three in the day's first three events.

Dan Carroll's fifth-place finish in the 1,500 and Lindy Cochran's 13th in the giant slalom were the top American finishes.

Miss Kreiner, who hadn't won a big race since 1974, flashed down the icy trail over the Hoadl Mountain course with its 49 gates in 1 minute 29.13 seconds to give Canada its first gold of these Games. Miss Mittermaier took the silver in 1:29.25 and Daniele Debernard of France won the bronze in 1:29.95.

Miss Mittermaier, the personable 25-year-old veteran of the European ski wars, lost her chance to become the first woman ever to capture the three Alpine ski events. She won the downhill Sunday and the slalom Wednesday. Only two men have ever won the triple, Toni Sailer of Austria in 1956 and Jean-Claude Killy of France in 1968.

"There were a lot of people here who may have expected me to win three gold medals, but I am very happy with two golds and a silver," said Miss Mittermaier. "I had not expected anything like this before the Olympics."

Asked if she had regrets about depriving the popular Miss Mittermaier of her third gold, Miss Kreiner said: "No regets at all. I think there was some room in there for me."

Mustangs upset Hayti in Bootheel JV action

STEELE-- North Pemiscot upset top-seeded Hayti in a B bracket game and Hayti's varsity defeated Lilbourn in semifinal round action in the Bootheel Conference Tournament at South Pemiscot High School in Steele Thursday night. The Mustang B team was a 42-41 winner, while the varsity score was 69-54 in favor of Hayti.

In the B game, Rick Brockett of North Pemiscot came off the bench to ignite a fourth-quarter rally that carried the Mustangs into the finals Saturday night. Hayti had led at the end of a defense oriented first half by a 20-11 score and were still ahead by eight going into the fourth quarter. But the inspired North Pemiscot substitutes played tenaciously on defense and got an offensive lift from Brocket, who hit a pair of field goals and four big freethrows to account for all of his eight points in the fourth period. Billy Shavers of the Mustangs hit a layup after an offensive rebound with six seconds left to put North Pemiscot ahead.

Verry McHugh led the Mustangs with 11 points, while Ed Graham added 10. Alex Kimball scored 14 to lead all scorers for Hayti.

Hayti started out slowly in the varsity game before erupting in the second half and moving to an easy victory over Caruthersville. The Indians trailed 15-14 going into the second period, but Hayti outscored them 16-10 in that frame to take a 30-25 halftime lead. The Indians broke the game wide open in the third quarter, holding the Tigers to only seven points and going ahead by twelve. Hayti added three more markers to their winning margin by scoring 25 in a wild fourth quarter.

Sylvester James flipped home 21 to help send Hayti into Saturday night's finals. Waymon Robinson added 14 and Kennett Higgins threw in 12 to help out. Don Tyes scored 16 and Buddy Knox had 14 for Caruthersville.

Delta C-7 meets Cooter at 6:30 in a jayvee game and South Pemiscot takes on North Pemiscot in an 8:00 varsity game as semifinal round play concludes tonight. The tournament finals are scheduled for Saturday evening.

SHS B team loses

JACKSON — The host Jackson Indians, seeded second in their own tournament, overpowered Sikeston in the second half to gain a 72-59 victory and move into the finals of the Jackson Invitational Junior Varsity Tournament. The Indians will play top-seeded Illmo- Scott City at 8:00 Saturday evening in the championship game. The Rams won their semifinal contest Thursday night by beating Notre Dame 52-43.

The score was tied at 36-36 at the half, but the Indians turned in on in the third quarter. Outscoring the Bulldogs 19-11, Jackson pave into an eight point lead, which they tacked five more markers onto in the fourth period.

Scott Gordon bombed home 25 for the Indians, while Mike Henderson and Sam Birk had 10 apiece. For the Bulldogs, junior Tim Ward fired in 24 for the Bulldogs, while Morrell Baker added 14 and Kenny Lane threw in 10 for the losers.

Sikeston plays Notre Dame at 6:30 Saturday night in the consolation game, followed by the championship contest between Jackson and Illmo-Scott City at 8:00.

Kennett visits Charleston for SeMo conference

By BILL HARRISON

CHARLESTON— The circular gymnasium inside the Charleston High School causes the Bluejay basketball court to have the appearance of being shorter than it actually is to some fans but Charleston opponents realize that it isn't as many teams have bit the dust since the new schools construction.

Friday night will be one of the most important games, if not the most important, of the season as the Kennett Indians come into town for a SEMO conference game.

Charleston knows all about the Indians and the Indians know all about the Bluejays so there won't be any feeling each other out after the ball is tipped off to start the crucial battle between the top 3A clubs in southeast Missouri and the top two teams in the conference.

Coach Mitch Haskins of the Bluejays and coach Terry Turlington of the Indians have already met once this season and the game was in doubt until the final buzzer as Kennett won the first meeting in the finals of the Poplar Bluff Invitational Tournamanet in January by a score of 52-50 on a shot with six seconds left in the game.

Last year the same two teams met for the championship of the PBHS tourney with Charleston winning by four points. The second time the teams played each other in conference play the Indians won. But the third time the teams played each other on the year was in the finals of the Dexter 3A regional tournament and everyone knows by now who won that one as the Bluejays went on to capture the state championship.

In the first meeting of the two teams at Poplar Bluff, Robert Roundtree spent a good eeal of the game on the bench with personal fouls, but still ended the game with a total of 17 points. Roundtree and David Allen are returning starters from last year while Charleston has only one returnee from last year in Ricky Frazier.

Coach Turlington has five seniors starting against the Bluejays. The big man being Roundtree. Allen is the guard that the Indians depend on for scoring and playmaking. Inside the Indians have 6-1 Roland Johnson. Bob Williams, a 6-0 forward, quit the team recently and will be missed.

The Kennett starters are as quick as any team in the area and have good rebounding power.

It'll be quickness against quickness and if coach Haskins will turn his Bluejays loose against the Indians the fans are in for a real speedy contest to say the least.

Charleston is anchored by 6-6 junior Ricky Frazier. Frazier has had his bad nights this season but is capable of completely dominating a ball game with his agility and quickness. He has demonstrated his basketball ability to numerous fans in the area so far.

Charleston has a height advantage on the Indians man for man as the Bluejays other two forwards stand at 6-3. Percy Owens, who has been playing better the last two games after being benched earlier for lack of consistency is a good shooter and good rebounder. Owens is only a junior. The other forward position is held down by sophomore Danny Farmer. Farmer is a good shooter and rebounder as well with good quickness and looks like a great prospect for Charleston the next two seasons. If Charleston has a weakness it is youth. Coach Haskins starts two sophomores and three juniors and only Frazier has any varsity experience of the four starters.

The Bluejays have as good a guard tandem as is in the area in junior Michael Smith and sophomore Michael Dean. Smith is the playmaker and the shooter. He has tremendous speed and quickness. Dean is as quick but lacks the maturity of Smity. Coach Haskins has a bench that causes other coaches in the area to wish for. Haskins can send in 6-4 BEn Bruenderman if he needs board strength. Wilbert McCain, at 6-3 is another player that the Bluejays have been depending on as of late. McCain is only a junior but can jump with anybody on the team. His only weakness is inexperience as he didn't play any last year.

If Charleston wins they will have clinched the SEMO conference title but if Kennett wins the race will be in a two way tie between the two teams and could very well end that way. Kennett has lost one game and Charleston is undefeated.

It has been reported that this is the last year for Terry Turlington to coach at Kennett so the win would be a big one for him.

If coach Haskins doesn't win this one then he will get one more chance in the most important one of them all, the 3A regional. If the Bluejays don't win that one then it'll be "wait until next year" time.

NEW YORK (AP) — The third richest event on the Ladies Professional Golfers Association tour — the $100,000 Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Classic — will be held Sept. 3-5 in Springfield, Ill. The lucrative, 54-hole event will be conducted at the Rail Golf Club, according to LPGA Commissioner Ray Volpe.

Williford leads Eagle comeback

PORTAGEVILLE— Grady Williford pumped in 13 of his 23 points in the fourth quarter Thursday night as the East Prairie Eagles came from behind to beat Portageville 58-54 at Portageville.

East Prairie had gone ahead 27-20 at the half, but the Bulldogs played much better basketball in the third period. Taking advantage of a cold-shooting quarter by the EAgles, Portageville spurted into a 37-35 lead at the end of the quarter.

It looked as if things were going Portageville's way early in the fourth quarter as they led by as much as six in the period. But Williford and the Eagles caught fire, scoring 23 in the final eight minutes to overhaul the Bulldogs and come away with the win.

First Methodist to host district pre-Lenten rally

Dr. Glenn "Tex" Evans of Nashville, Tenn., will be the speaker at a pre-Lenten rally at 3:30 p.m. Sunday in First United Methodist Church, Highway 61 North — one of 27 such rallies scheduled Sunday in the 17 United Methodist districts of Missouri.

The Rev. Dr. Evans is director of town and community evangelism in the General Board of Discipleship of the United Methodist Church.

Music by the chancel choir of First United Methodist Church will be featured in the local rally.

The rally here is sponsored by the 73 United Methodist Churches in the Poplar Bluff-Sikeston District and, like the other rallies around the state, was called by Bishop Robert E. Goodrich Jr., United Methodist episcopal leader for the Missouri area, in preparation for the Lenten season which begins Ash Wednesday, March 3, and continues through Easter Sunday, April 18.

Each of the 1,100 churches in the state has been asked to bring to the rallies a copy of its plan or program of evangelism during the Lenten season for dedication with prayer at an altar service.

Each rally will hear a taped message of inspiration and instruction by Bishop Goodrich, and at most of the rallies, the Missouri episcopal leader's remarks will be accompanied by projected slides.

Also, during the afternoon, a long- distance call will provide reports of what is happening, including the number of persons present at the other16 district rallies.

Pastors of the 73 churches in the Poplar Bluff- Sikeston District will lead bus and-or auto caravans from their parishes to the district rally here.

Guest ministers will deliver the sermon at each location, and special music will be provided at many of the services by a mass choir composed of singers from churches in the district.

The other rally locations include: Arnold, Aurora, Cameron, Carthage, Chillicothe, Farmington, Festus, Gallatin, Independence, Kirksville, Kirdwood, Manchester, Marionville, Marshall, Maryville, Mexico, Neosho, Nevada, Pond, Rolla, St. Joseph, St. Louis (2), Sedalia, Springfield and Union.

Bishop Jones to visit St. Paul's

The Rt. Rev. William A. Jones Jr., bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Missouri will celebrate the Holy Communion, preach and confirm five persons in a 4 p.m. service Sunday at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, 1100 N. Main St.

After the service, the Episcopal Churchwomen will have a dinner in the parish house honoring the bishop, the new confirmands and the congregation and friends.

Following the dinner, the bishop and the entire congregation will go to the vicarage, the home of St. Paul's new vicar, the Rev. William L. Sharkey, Mrs. Sharkey and their daughter Hilary, where the Bishop will bless the vicarage. Dessert and coffee and punch will be served to all those present, and the Sharkeys will have an open house.

This will be Bishop Jones' first annual visit to St. Paul's since he was consecrated and his new ministry was celebrated at St. Paul's on May 18 of last year.

Arrangements for the dinner are being made by Mrs. Carl Muench, Mrs. Robert Jenkins and Mrs. Dan Rosenstein.

Arthur Wallhausen Jr. of Charleston will be the organist for the occasion. He and his son, Arthur III, will provide music on the organ and recorder before and during the service.

Eastside Nazarene plans film

"The Coming Invasion of Israel", a hard-hitting film dealing with today's headlines in the Middle East, will be shown at 7 p.m. Sunday at Eastside Church of the Nazarene, located at the corner of Ralph and Betty streets.

Using the Bible as a prophetic background, the movie reveals God's plan for Israel as disclosed in Ezekial 36-39 and Daniel 11, in relation to the grave crisis the nation faces today.

The film also reviews the rise of Russia from a broken nation little more than 20 years ago to one of the great military and political powers in history and explores what the Bible says about this great power and how it fits into God's plan.

The Prayer

"First take the log out of your own eye." (Matthew 7:5, RSV)

PRAYER: Dear Lord, help us to walk close to You. Help us to live in such a way that other people will believe in You and experience Your fellowship. Amen.

Youth to lead Miner church in revival

The youth will lead weekend revival services tonight, Saturday night and Sunday at Miner Baptist Church located at the intersection of Route H and Highway 62 East.

An evangelistic team from Southwest Baptist College at Bolivar will provide the music and sermons for the services which will begin at 7 tonight and Saturday night. Bob Perry of Charleston heads the college team.

First Baptist plans No Excuse Sunday

Feb. 29 will be No Excuse Sunday, a Sunday School attendance promotion, at First Baptist Church, 1101 N. Main St., Mark Tappmeyer, minister of youth and education, and Charles Chaney, Sunday School director, have announced.

The event will feature a covered-dish luncheon and an afternoon musical program and will culminate a month-long Five Fabulous Sundays attendance campaign by the church's Sunday School department.

The month of February has not had five Sundays since 1948 and will not do so again until 2004. In recognition of the occasion jointly with the Bicentennial celebration this year, Bicentennial certificats will be awarded to all who attend Sunday School all five Sundays this month.

On Feb. 29, the luncheon at noon will follow Sunday School at 9:15 a.m. and the morning worship service at 10:30. After the luncheon, the musical program at 1:15 p.m. will feature a college musical group from First Baptist Church in Cape Girardeau.

The musical program will conclude the day's activities, and no evening services will be conducted.

Among the features of No Excuse Sunday, when all Sunday School members are expected to be present, will be:

--A cot set up in the lobby for those who say Sunday is the only day they can sleep late.

--Murine provided for those with tired eyes from watching TV too late On Saturday night.

--Scorecards for listing the names of all hypocrites present.

--A portable TV for those who don't want to miss their favorite program.

--And numerous other items to negate common excuses.

Former Malden man minister in Canada

KINGSTON, Ontario— Doyle Crawford, Ontario, has been appointed to serve as full-time minister of the Church of Christ in Kingston. The 31-year-old minister and his wife Dewona are former Malden, Mo., residents.

Mr. and Mrs. Crawford moved to Jellico, Tenn., in September 1968 to assist Jack Hilliard, former Malden Church of Christ minister, in mission work at Jellico.

The Crawfords later moved to Allgood, Tenn., and there served the church for three years while Crawford received two years of ministerial training at East Tennessee School of Preaching and Missions in Knoxville.

In December 1975 the family moved to Canada.

Crawford graduated from Malden High School in 1962 and is a former employe of the Sterling Aluminum plant, now Federal-Mogul, Inc.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ulis Crawford of Malden. Mrs. Crawford's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William Ryan of Malden Route Two.

The couple has two sons, Derek and Douglas.

Malden church to host Youth Week meetings

MALDEN— Youth Week will be observed from Saturday through Feb. 22 at First Pentecostal Church, and "Crown Him Lord" will be the theme for the week.

The Rev. Travis Smith of Houston, Tex., a third-year student at the Texas Pentecostal Bible College, will be guest speaker for the services.

Youth week is a time when the youth of the church take an active part in the services.

An old-fashioned street service will be held Saturday afternoon during which the youth will sing and distribute invitations and tracts.

A scrapbook is compiled of each activity during youth week. Dian Curtis, Teresa McDonald and Paula Coffer will serve as co-editors. Bobby Rice and Tonya Garris will serve as prayer captains. The youth will give speeches relating to the theme each night.

Services will be held at 7:30 nightly except Monday. The Sunday evening service will begin at 7 o'clock.

Revival to open Sunday

MOREHOUSE— Revival services will begin Sunday and continue through Feb. 22 at the Morehouse Assembly of God Church. Services will be conducted each night except Monday.

The Rev. Danny Brooks of Scott City will be the evangelist, and the Rev. R. A. McAnulty is pastor.

2-night revival slated

BERTRAND— Revival services will be conducted tonight and Saturday night at the Bertrand Church of God of Prophecy in connection with the International Youth Week program of the church.

Londa Richardson will be the evangelist.

Vatican rejects declaration

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican today formally rejected a condemnation of Zionism and a call for an Arab Jerusalem declared by the Christian-Moslem conference held in Tripoli, Libya, last week.

A 12-member delegation from the Vatican headed by Sergio Cardinal Pignedoli attended the five-day conference sponsored by Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy.

Area Baptists to hold 25th annual fellowship

DEXTER — National (Negro) Baptists and Southern Baptists in Southeast Missouri will meet Feb. 19 for a special all-day fellowship at First Baptist Church, 11 W. Castor.

The program this year will emphasize the 200th anniversary of our nation and will mark the 25th anniversary of organized work between National and Southern Baptists in Southeast Missouri.

The services will begin at 9:45 a.m., and a fellowship luncheon will be served at noon. The afternoon session, beginning at 1:15, will feature conferences on prayer and stewardship.

Guest speakers for the morning session will be the Revs. Ira Singleton and Donald Hunter. The Rev. Mr. Singleton is pastor of First Baptist Church at Caruthersville and is a former missionary to Africa. The Rev. Mr. Hunter is an outstanding National Baptist leader and serves as pastor of First Baptist Church of Maplewood (St. Louis). Mrs. Hunter, a noted musician, will present special music at the morning session.

The Rev. Donald Cochran, pastor of First Southern Baptist Church at Malden, will be the featured speaker at the afternoon session.

The night session will emphasize youth. Pre-session music will be presented at 6:45 p.m. by the youth choir from Miner Baptist Church. The regular program, beginning at 7 o'clock, will feature John Woods as special youth speaker.

Woods, a student at Southwest Baptist College in Bolivar, was saved from a life of drug addiction about two years ago and since his conversion has conducted over 75 revivals.

John Woods

Special music for the night session will be provided by National and Southern Baptist youth choirs and the Southern Singers from Southern Baptist College at Walnut Ridge, Ark.

A special offering will be received at the morning and night sessions for the SeMo Baptist Camp near Poplar Bluff. The SeMo Camp Committee has adopted a building fund goal of $10,000 to rebuild and enlarge a dormitory which was destroyed by fire several months ago.

The SeMo Baptist Fellowship is a part of the cooperative ministry between National and Southern Baptists for the state of Missouri. Dr. Loren J Belt serves as state director of the Department of Work with National Baptists for the Missouri Baptist Convention with offices in Jefferson City. The Rev. Otis L Hawes Jr. of Poplar Bluff serves as director of the fellowship in Southeast Missouri.

Belt says, "We are grateful for the Christian fellowship which exists between National Baptists and Southern Baptists in this area of the state. The Lord has blessed this cooperative ministry during the past 25 years and greater things are yet to come in the future. We look forward to a great day of fellowship in Dexter on Feb. 19."

There are six Southern Baptist associations and three National Baptist associations affiliated with this interracial ministry. Southern Baptist associations, with the directors of missions, are as follows: Black River, the Rev. Owen Sherrill, Kennett; Cane Creek- Stoddard, the Rev. George Arthur Dexter; Cape Girardeau, the Rev. G. D. Parrack; Charleston, the rev. Jack Bishop, Benton; New Madrid, the Rev. Bill Wehmeyer, Portageville; and Madrid, the Rev. Bill Wehmeyer, Portageville; and Wayne County (vacant).

The three National Baptist associations and their moderators are: Christian Liberty, the Rev. J. L. Nabors, Sikeston; Friendship- Consolidated, the Rev. Quincy Keeble, Broseley; and Pemiscot- Dunklin, the Rev. E. D. Boxley, Hayti.

Full gospel meeting set

The Sikeston chapter of Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship International will meet at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the Heritage House, 305 Cresap Place.

The Rev. Hugh E. Cerutti, pastor of First Assembly of God Church in Farmington, will be the speaker. The Rev. Mr. Cerutti began preaching when he was 16 years old. He attended Central Bible Institute in Springfield.

Presently, he is assistant presbyter of the Flat River Section of the Southern Missouri District of the Assemblies of God and has served as presbyter and area youth leader for the Assemblies of God.

The Rev. Mr. Cerutti has a daily radio broadcast, "The Strength of God's Word", and a weekly broadcast, "Presenting Christ", on radio station KREL.

The meeting is open to men and women of all denominations.

The first change in the flag of 13 stars and stripes adopted by the Second Continental Congress in 1777 came in 1795 with the addition of Vermont and Kentucky to the Union. Congress passed and President Washington signed an act specifying a flag of 15 alternate red and white stripes and 15 white stars on a blue field. In 1818 Congress established the present basic design — 13 alternate stripes representing the original states and a star for each state, new ones to be added on July 4 following admission of a new state.

The POWER of FAITH

BY WOODI ISHMAEL

THE BIBLE

No. 226. The Book of Proverbs: Discipline

Many of the admonitions found in the book of Proverbs are maxims or aphorisms which specifically emphasize desirable character traits or modes of conduct. Because it is a requisite for wisdom and the good life, discipline is highly prized by the wise.

The sage who addressed himself to the topic of discipline taught that corporal punishment is the appropriate method of disciplining a child. "Apply thine heart unto instruction, and thine ears to the words of knowledge. Withhold not correction from the child: for if thou beatest him with the rod, he shall not die. Thou shalt beat him with the rod, and shalt deliver his soul from hell." (Proverbs 23:12-14)

However, another important aspect of discipline involves constructive criticism. "The ear that heareth the reproof of life abideth among the wise. He that refuseth instruction despiseth his own soul: but he that heareth reproof getteth understanding. The fear of the Lord is the instruction of wisdom; and before honour is humility." (Proverbs 15:31-33)

Today in U.S. history

By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, Feb. 13., the 44th day of 1976. There are 322 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1689, the English Parliament adopted a Bill of Rights.

On this date:

In 1633, the Italian astronomer, Galileo, arrived in Rome and was detained by the Roman Catholic inquisition.

In 1635, the first public school in America, the Boston Public Latin School, was founded.

In 1741, Andrew Bradford of Philadellphia published the first magazine in the United States.

In 1920, the League of Nations recognized the perpetual neutrality of Swtizerland.

In 1945, in World War II, the Soviets captured Budapest, Hungary, from the Germans after a 50-day siege.

In 1962, the United States rejected a Soviet proposal that 18 heads of state meet in Geneva to discuss disarmament.

Ten years ago: Vice President Hubert Humphrey reassured leaders in Thailand that the United States intended to stand firm in Southeast Asia.

Five years ago: South Vietnamese troops were driving into Laos and reported seizing large stores of Communist arms and supplies.

Today's birthdays: Former First Lady Bess Truman is 91. Opera singer Eileen Farrell is 56.

Thought for today: Reading is sometimes an ingenious device for avoiding thought — Sir Arthur Helps, English historian, 1813-1875.

Deaths

Pansy Smith

MORLEY— Mrs. Pansy L. Smith, 74, died at 10:45 a.m. Thursday in Missouri Delta Community Hospital at Sikeston, where she had been a patient for three and a half weeks.

She was born Feb. 28, 1901 at Karbers Ridge, Ill., to the late Ulys and Mary Lane and was a member of the Morley Baptist Church and a senior citizens group.

On Oct. 28, 1917, she married Jake B. Smith of Crowder, who survives. Two sons and two daughters preceded her in death.

The family moved to Morley in 1942.

Also surviving are: one son, Henry U. Smith of Shabbona, Ill.; four daughters, Mrs. Mary Ann Phillips of Oran, Mrs. Imogene Wells of Benton, Mrs. Lillian Milam of Jonesboro, Ill., and Shirley Smith of Dallas; one brother, Bill Lane of Collinsville, Ill.; three sisters, Mrs. Hazel Cogdill of Charleston, Mrs. Beryl Small of Webster Groves and Mrs. Reva Wise of Hanley Hills; and 21 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

Friends may call after 4:30 p.m. today at Amick-Burnett Funeral Home in Benton.

Services are scheduled at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Morley Baptist Church with the Rev. Liston Smith, pastor, officiating.

Burial will be in Hickory Groves Cemetery near Morley.

Leonard Farley

CHARLESTON— Services for Leonard Farley, 52, who died Tuesday at Madeira Beach, Fla., are scheduled at 1 p.m. Sunday in McMikle Funeral Home. The Rev. Robert Garner, pastor of the Free Pentecostal Church, will officiate.

Burial will follow in Oak Grove Cemetery near Charleston.

Friends may call after 2:30 p.m. Saturday at the funeral home.

Born Oct. 18, 1923 in West Frankfort, Ill., he was the son of the late Oliver and Edith Cruson Farley and a veteran of World War II.

Surviving are one son, Dale Farley of Culver City, Calif.; one daughter, Mrs. Steve Almstead, of Culver City; four brothers, G. R. Farley of Paramount, Calif., Rodney Farley of Hamilton, Ohio, Paul Farley of Jefferson City and Wendell Farley of Sikeston; and two sisters, Mrs. Clyde Groves of Thebes, Ill., and Mrs. June House of Poplar Bluff.

One son preceded him in death.

Littie Frison

HOWARDVILLE— Littie Harris Frison, 84, died Sunday at her home.

She was born June 20, 1891 in Conway, Ark.

Survivors include her widower, Mack McKinley Frison; three sons, Carl and Floyd Harris of St. Louis and Claude Harris of New Madrid; two sisters, Elenoria Wiley of Denver, Colo., and Addie Dickerson of Conway; one half brother, Sam Whitworth of Chicago; and 30 grandchildren and 51 great-grandchildren.

Friends may call from 7 to 9 p.m. Saturday at Richards Funeral Home in New Madrid, where services are scheduled at 1:30 p.m. Sunday with the Rev. Charlie Bell officiating.

Burial will be in Fannie Powell Cemetery at New Madrid.

Paul L. Rolwing

CHARLESTON— Paul L. Rolwing, 84, of Route Two died at 6 a.m. today in Missouri Delta Community Hospital at Sikeston.

The body is at McMikle Funeral Home, where arrangements are incomplete.

IT'S A PLANE SHAME

DETROIT (AP) — Coach Roy Kramer chartered two 44-passenger planes to fly his Central Michigan State team to a night game at Illinois State. But when the travel party arrived at the airport the afternoon of the game only one plane was on hand.

Bond calls MAPPS 'landmark'

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Gov. Christopher S. Bond has called a Missouri Action Plan for Public Safety a "landmark" in the fight against crime in Missouri.

"The public can expect something to come out of it if the public gets involved," Bond said after he received the MAPPS recommendations here Thursday.

The plan, drawn up by six citizen task forces formed last July, calls for a mandatory, no-parole five-year prison term for offenders using a weapon during a crime, an end to closed-door plea bargaining, beefed-up juvenile programs and statewide minimum standards for law enforcement officers.

Bond said he agreed with the minimum sentences for the use of a weapon in the commission of a crime, but he said he favored a three-year term to avoid overcrowding of jails.

The MAPPS report agreed with the 1973 report of the National Advisory Commission on Criminal Justice Standards and Goals, which decried the behind-the-scenes plea bargaining system in which an offender is persuaded to plead guilty to a lesser charge in return for a lighter sentence.

Any plea bargining, the report said, should be reported in court at the same time the guilty plea is accepted.

The MAPPS plan recommended that community juvenile programs should be set and a statewide system of full-time prosecutors and public defendants be established.

Also called for by the report were reductions in probation and parole officers' case loads a system to monitor the length of time between a complaint being filed and being acted on in court.

The MAPPS plan was the result of the work of nearly 200 citizens. It was financed by a $225,000 grant from the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration and coordinated by the state Department of Public Safety.

This continued moderation of inflationary pressures and the report last week of a sharp drop in the nation's unemployment rate gives support to the Ford administration's forecast of continued economic recovery in the new year.

It also offered consumers the prospect of an easing in retail prices in the coming months, as trends in wholesale prices usually are reflected later at the retail level.

In January, the wholesale price index for farm products, processed foods and feeds fell 1.8 per cent following declines of 2.5 per cent in December and 1.2 per cent in November.

The decline in agricultural products offset a four-tenths of a per cent increase in industrial commodities.

Heart month proclaimed

Mayor Don Fulton signs a proclamation designating February as American Heart Month and urging all residents of Sikeston and Scott County to support the 1976 Heart Fund campaign. From left, are Beverly Southerland, publicity chairman; Mayor Fulton; and Sherri Watson, county chairman. Mayor Fulton stated in his proclamation that heart and blood vessel diseases claim more than a million lives each year and account for 52 per cent of deaths from all casues. During American Heart Month, local volunteers will join the more than two million volunteers nationwide to distribute heart- saving information and collect funds for research programs, and educational and community projects dedicated to combating diseases of the heart and circulatory system.

Social Services get $182 million boost

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The State Department of Social Services budget got a boost Thursday in the form of a $182 million increase over this year approved by the House Appropriations Committee.

Also approved by the committee was a measure funding the General Assembly's operaions, including salaries and daily allowances for state legislators.

The $652 million Social Services budget represents an increase in miscellaneous costs and in federal financing, but shows a decrease in state general revenue spending and in federal revenue sharing money.

The bill includes funding for a number of health related fields including cancer research, mental health care facilities, veterans affairs and the state Corrections Department.

The legislative funding bill, which totals $7.5 million, includes a $40,000 provision for the governor's inaugural ball, a traditional event.

More than $9.5 million is included in the social services measure to fund the maximum security prisons for men here.

Malden post office names operations superintendent

MALDEN— Mrs. Letha L. Hance of Corning, Ark., has been assigned to the Malden post office as superintendent of postal operations to succeed Wilbur Thornton, who recently was named postmaster.

The title, superintendent of postal operations, is a new postal recognition for the old title, assistant postmaster.

Mrs. Hance was reassigned to Malden Feb. 1 from the sectional center post office in Poplar Bluff. She assumed her duties Feb. 5. The Malden assignment also meant a promotion for Mrs. Hance, who has 17 years of government service with the past six years in the post office department.

She credits the assignment to Malden to the postal experience and background gained as an employe in the sectional center and postal-oriented offices she was assigned during her husband's military career.

Mrs. Hance is originally from Wardell and is married to Franklin E. Hance, a retired U.S. Army Commander sergeant major (SCM). The Hance family moved to Corning after his retirement from the Army in March 1974.

The Hances are parents of four children: Franklin Hance Jr., an Army Sergeant stationed at Ft. Stewart, Ga.; Donald L. Hance, assistant manager of the Overland Park Station Restaurant in Shawnee Mission, Kan.; Mrs. Terry Sanders of Shawnee Mission; and Allen Hance, a senior at Corning High School.

Hance plans to move to Malden as soon as suitable housing arrangements can be made.

Looking back

Charlestonians can really dance

50ears ago
February 13, 1926

Little Daniel Malone and Helen Virginia Keith "done themselves proud" Monday when they danced the Charleston at the Malone Theatre. These young artists are billed for the Malone Theatre on February 22 and 23, their dance to follow that of Jack Stubbs and Miss Evelyn Smith, Sikeston's most famous "Charlestonians."

Miner-Switch--Otis Bishop has pneumonia.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

2. Card of Thanks

We wish to thank all those who sent flowers and food for the funeral of Frank A. McBain.
Kathryn and Fred McBain

Words can never express our thanks to all the good people, the churches, and others for the gifts of food, money, clothing, bedding, etc., since the loss of our home by fire. We do sincerely appreciate every kindness shown and trust that a loving God will bless you for it.
The family of Jerry Hicks.

x $150 Sales Bonus

PERIOD I. The following properties, insured and as-is are offered to both owner-occupant and investor purchasers only for a ten (10) calendar day period. Priority in acceptance will be accorded to purchase offers submitted by prospective owner-occupants. All offers received for the same property within this period in each purchaser group (owner-occupant or investor) will be treated as simultaneous offers and processing priority will be accorded at the end of this period on the basis of highest prices offered above stated minimum acceptable prices. Properties offered as-is are denoted by "CASH".. Deadline for the submission of bids relating to the following properties will be 4:30 P.M. FEBRUARY 13, 1976 PERIOD II. The following property is offered on a first- come, first- sold priority basis.

Properties not sold at Tuesday bid-openings are automatically deleted herefrom pending Period changes, price adjustments and other actions by HUD, and will be relisted in the earliest practicable Friday advertisement.

Bid openings will normally be held on Tuesdays unless a legal holiday falls thereon in which case bids will be opened the next day, Wednesday. Normal Monday deadlines will be changed to preceding Fridays when a legal holiday falls on Monday. Otherwise intervening holidays will have no effect on the ten-calendar- day offering periods.

As-is offerings are listed for sale "AS-IS" with no warranty, not eligible for FHA mortgage insurance, all cash. The provisions of paragraph 11 of the sales contract do not apply as to guarantee. These propertes may or may not conform to code requirements. Selling brokers will orally inform purchasers of the foregoing prior to execution of sales contract. Prices are minimum acceptable subject to sealed bid procedure. Special provisionns applicable to lead paint treatment will apply. $150 sales bonus applys to all as-is offerings. The right is reserved to hold as-is offers for a maximum of ten days from date of bid opening. Bid requirements will conform generally with those set out in Forms HUD-9662 and 9662-A as modified by this notice and copies of said forms are available upon request.

This listing represents a supplement to the monthly Public Information Release entitled "HUD-Acquired Properties Available for Sale or Rent" and is subject to the terms and conditions set out therein. Copies of said PIR are available upon request.

Sal Mineo stabbed to death

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Sal Mineo, known as "The Switchblade Kid" for his many film roles as a teen-age tough, has been stabbed to death outside his Hollywood apartment house, authorities said.

Witnesses told police they heard screams and saw a man with long, blond hair running from the alley where Mineo was killed Thursday night.

Sheriff's Information Officer Anthony Silas said investigators were still searching for the murder weapon. He said there was no immediate indication of the motive for the attack.

Neighbors found the 37-year-old actor lying face-up in a pool of blood about 20 feet from a parking area behind his apartment, police said. He had been stabbed in the chest.

Bill Jones, a neighbor in the moderately expensive apartments near the Sunset Strip, said, "We heard about three yells. The last yell was 'Help.' We rushed out and saw Sal lying face-up, breathing really hard.

"He was like in a daze, trying to breathe. He didn't say anything."

Another neighbor, Mary Chance, 21, said, "It was too quiet. Then all of a sudden those screams, we heard those screams."

Neighbors said Mineo was quiet and kept to himself.

Authorities said the actor apparently lived alone and that his family resides in New York.

Mineo was in rehearsal for a starring role in "P.S. Your Cat Is Dead," a play scheduled to open next week at the Westwood Playhouse.

Highlights of his acting career included his portrayal of a juvenile delinquent along with James Dean in "Rebel Without A Cause" and later as an Israeli terrorist in "Exodus." Both performances won him Academy Award nominations.

As a delinquent in "Dino," he won a television Emmy in 1955.

A Gene Krupa fan, one of his favorite roles was that of the drummer in "The Gene Krupa Story." He more recently appeared as an ape in "Escape from the Planet of the Apes."

Mineo won a gold record in the late 1950s for "Start Moving."

Mineo was born Jan. 10, 1939, in New York City, the son of Italian immigrant parents. He began his show business career when he was 11.

Ford vetoes $6 billion public employment bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford today vetoed a $6.1 billion public works employment bill, saying it would "do little to create jobs for the unemployed" and perhaps cost in excess of $25,000 per job.

He said the claims of the bill's sponsors that it would create 600,000 to 800,000 new jobs were "badly exaggerated."

Ford said administration experts estimated that at most, some 250,000 jobs would be created over a period of several years and the impact would come in late 1977 or 1978.

At that point, he said, the total would come to no more than 100,000 to 120,000 new jobs "barely a one-tenth of one per cent improvement in the unemployment rate."

Ford signalled his plan to veto the bill even before it got through Congress. It was passed by a wide margin.

A veto override battle was anticipated and House leaders already have scheduled reconsideration of the bill next Thursday.

The House, which passed the public works jobs bill Jan. 29 by a vote of 321 to 80, appears to have the needed votes for an override. The Senate passed the original bill last July, 65 to 28, more than the two-thirds needed to override. The Senate passed the final compromise version by a voice vote Dec. 17.

The President says the bill will cost too much and would take too long to create needed jobs. He has argued repeatedly in recent speeches that public service jobs are not the solution to unemployment and he prefers tax incentives to get private industry to expand and take on more workers.

Backers of the bill contend it would create some 600,000 jobs with grants of $2.5 billion to state and local governments for construction or improvements of schools, sewers, roads and other public works projects.

It would be aimed at helping construction and related industries that have been hardest hit by the recession.

Another controversial item is an "antirecession" aid provision of grants to state and local governments. The aid would be triggered when unemployment reaches 6 per cent or higher to guarantee continuation of necessary public services.

Tom David tiestifies in Hearnes case

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A former state director of revenue and a Jefferon City banker testified before a grand jury Thursday which resumed looking into the personal finances of former Gov. Warren E. Hearnes.

Thomas R. David, revenue director from 1965 to 1969, and Fred Rost, vice president of the Central Trust Bank of Jefferson City, were among three witnesses who appeared before the grand jury Thursday. The third was E. M. Riebold of Silver City, N.M.

David said he testified about his knowledge of Hearnes' finances and his personal stock ownership. David added he knew nothing about any of Hearnes' business transactions.

Rost refused to comment on questions asked him during his appearnce.

Riebold said he was asked about a 1 per cent interest that Hearnes reportedly had in a mining compamy in New Mexico of which Riebold was the principal stockholder.

Riebold said 10 per cente of the company was purchased from Alfred Gomez, another stockholder, in 1969 by the Founders of America Investment Corp., of Springfield. He said 9 per cent of the interest went to Founders and 1 per cent to Hearnes.

Riebold said he never met Hearnes and that his dealings in the matter were handled by Gerald Lowther, a Sringfield lawyer.

New sign goes up

The program is funded by a grant from the federal government covering 90 per cent of the cost. The stop sign Husher is installing at the corner of North New Madrid and North streets is nearly 50 per cent larger than the one it replaces. (Daily Standard photo)

Mandatory jail term for gun use debated

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—A minimum three-year prison term would be tacked onto sentences given any criminal convicted of a felony in which he used a weapon under an amendment adopted by the Missouri Senate during debate on a revised criminal code.

Sen. Larry Marshall, R-Columbia, gained acceptance of the proposal Thursday after an attempt was turned back to exempt first offenders from the provision. The Senate, however, took no final action on the overall revision of the state's 140-year-old criminal laws.

Under the mandatory sentencing provision, there would be no possibility of probation, parole or conditional release until the convict had served the mandatory prison time.

First offenders, convicted of "armed criminal action," would have a three-year term tacked onto their primary sentences. Second offenders would have to serve a mandatory 10 years and third offenders would be imprisoned for 20 years.

Sen. John Schneider, D-St. Louis, unsuccessfully tried to exempt first offenders from the mandatory sentencing provisions. He claimed by not doing so, "we are increasing the potential that that person is more likely to become a hardened criminal."

The 283-page revision measure, scheduled for further debate next week, is intended to update criminal statutes and eliminate obsolete ones.

In the House, apparent confusion along with questions about contradiction of federal law led to the defeat of a bill that would have made it a misdemeanor to hire illegal aliens. The sponsor claimed the measure was needed to curb increasing incidents of illegal aliens being hired in the state.

The House gave final approval and sent to the Senate a measure intended to clear up Gov. Christopher S. Bond's objections to the controversial Nurse Practices Act. That law went into effect last month when the legislature, for the first time this century, overrode a governor's veto.

While the bill eliminates some problems cited by Bond, opponents said it did not go far enough, completely ignoring objections to a "violation of the spirit of the open meetings law.

Under the Nurse Practices Act, the secretary of the state Board of Nursing can keep secret records and information that had previously been open to the public.

Another measure sent to the Senate would require future construction or improvements in parks, recreational areas and rest areas to include modifications adapting them for senior citizens and the handicapped. The bill also would require instructional and directional signs in those areas to be in braille.

A statewide plan to put identification numbers of personal property was sent to the upper chamber, but because of several problem provisions changes are expected in the Senate. the so-called "Operation Ident" is intended to help police recover stolen articles.

Wholesale prices stable in January

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices remained stable in January as another big drop in farm prices offset increases for industrial goods, the government said today.

The Labor Department said prices actually rose four-tenths of a per cent last month but after adjustment for seasonal variations, the wholesale price index was unchanged.

The Commerce Department, meanwhile, said that inventories of the nation's businesses declined by $526 million in December and fell a total of $5.5 billion during all of 1975.

By contrast, inventories increased $46.6 billion in 1974.

While inventories were declining in 1975, sales increased only slightly, reflecting the depressed business conditions during the year. Commerce said combined business sales increased one per cent in December and only 2.4 per cent during the year.

In 1974, business sales had increased 14 per cent.

Since rising 1.8 per cent in October, wholesale prices showed no change in November and declined an adjusted fourtenths of a per cent in December. Over the past three months, they have declined at an adjusted annual rate of 1.7 per cent.

Advance to vote on bonds

ADVANCE — Voters in the Advance school district will cast ballots March 16 on a $500,000 bond issue for a proposed building program, Supt. Floyd Liley said today.

If approved, 10,000- square foot additions will be added to both the present elementary and high school buildings.

Liley said the high school addition will be for vocational-educational facilities.

Tank contract authorized

SCOTT CITY — The City Council Thursday night authorized a $62,800 contract to be drawn for the purchase of a 100,000- gallon water storage tank.

The other party to the contract is Security Tank Co. of Memphis, Tenn. The contract includes the tank at a cost of $57,000, a concrete foundation pad at a cost of $5,000 and a safty cable to run along side the ladder of the tower at a cost of $800.

Don Johnson, representing Security Tank Co., said that as soon as the contract is received, the tank and tower will be dismantled and should arrive within a week.

Burlison defends Social Security

MALDEN — Tenth District Rep. Bill D. Burlison of Cape Girardeau described reports of Social Security's pending doom and bankruptcy as "nonsense" Thursday in an address before the Malden Culture Club.

Burlison countered recent attacks on the Social Security system by noting that they "are consistent in that they are made up of half-truths and sometimes outright falsehoods."

Burlison cited recent studies, both government and private, that reaffirm the basic soundness of the nation's retirement and disability insurance program.

"Those who know social Security best," he said, "those who work with it, study it and plan for its future, all agree on one thing: the system is working and it is sound."

Burlison went on to discuss the causes of Social Security's recent deficits and noted that while a financial readjustment is required, it is easily manageable and there is certainly no cause for alarm. The basic problem, he said, is to determine the most equitable means of increasing revenues.

"Social Security has always met its commitments in the past and will continue to do so in the future.I think it safe to say," concluded Burlison, "that Social Security will be around for a long time to come. Social Security, after all, is as sound as the United States government."

4 injured, 2 seriously

Two young women were seriously injured and two persons received lesser injuries in three area traffic accidents Thursday, the highway patrol reported today.

A single- car accident at 4 p.m. Thursday on Highway 21, one- quarter mile north of the Missouri- Arkansas state line, caused serious injuries to the driver, Thresa D. Duffey, 17, of Poyner, and a passenger, Meggie A. Hulen, 18, of Warm Springs, Ark.

Miss Duffey was taken to Lucy Lee Hospital in Poplar Bluff, and Miss Hulen was taken to Ripley County Hospital at Doniphan.

A motorcycle - pickup collision at 3:50 p.m. Thursday on a county road eight miles south of Marquand resulted in moderate injuries to the motorcycle driver Larry Lakies, 16, of Marquand.

The accident occurred when Lakies rounded a curve on the wrong side of the road and his northbound motorcycle collided with a southbound pickup driven by Donna Mouser, 21, of Marquand.

Lakies was taken to Madison County Memorial Hospital at Fredericktown.

Another single- car accident at 10:40 p.m. on Highway 67, three miles north of Coldwater, resulted in minor injuries to the driver.

The accident occurred when Brenda Sadlin, 30, of Arnold apparently lost control of her southbound car on wet pavement and the vehicle slid off the road and struck a wooden fence.

She also was taken to the Madison County hospital.

Charges pending

CHARLESTON — A charge of burglary is pending against an 18-year-old Charleston youth in connection with the theftof a radio and three sets of keys Thursday night from the office of Police Chief Bob Ritchey.

Ritchey said Jimmy Wyatt was arrested for investigation of the theft shortly before 8 a.m. today at his home and was released pending issuance of a warrant.

Wyatt and Tommy Vinson, 17, of Charleston reportedly were at the police department with Ricky Bone, 18, of Charleston, who had been arrested about 10:15 p.m. Thursday for driving while intoxicated.

Wyatt and Vinson were sitting in a hallway near Ritchey's office, and allegedly Wyatt entered the unlocked door and took the keys and radio.

The keys were found this morning outside the back door of the police station and the radio was recovered near the old city hall, across the street from the police department.

No charges are pending against Vinson.

Man held for Sunday's theft

The arrest of Johnny Ray Smith, 29, of 245 Harry St. has solved a Sunday night burglary at SeMo Motor Co., 417 N. Main St., according to Police Detective Sgt. Dan Hinton.

Smith was taken into custody Monday afternoon and is being held under $1,000 bond on a charge of burglary and stealing.

Smith allegedly took $1,000 worth of tools, 12 tires, $20 in cash, two outboard motors and an outboard motor gasoline tank from the automobile company in the four separate times he entered the building.

The two outboard motors were reported stolen in the Sunday night burglary, but Hinton said they were actually taken about a month ago and the theft was not discovered until this week. The motors were recovered Wednesday in Bardwell, Ky.

Hinton said the value of the tools previously had been overestimated and were worth $1,000, instead of the $2,000 initially reported.

Local Selective Service office has closed

Election commission director asked to disclose finances

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—The new executive director of the Missouri Elections Commission should make a public disclosure of his financial holdings, the head of Common Cause in Missouri has urged.

In a letter to the six-member commission, Ted Stein asked the commission to use eight standards in considering potential successors to resigning commission director Albert Kemp.

The commission has scheduled initial interviews of director candidates during its meeting here today and will conduct another session Saturday to discuss other business.

The self-styled citizens lobby said public financial disclosure by the commission's choice for director is needed because "the public must have confidence that the commission's chief staff member will not be compromised by his own financial interests."

In proposing the set of standards, Stein said Common Cause was not trying to tie the commission's hands in the selection process, "but rather to help ensure that the new executive director enjoys public confidence and is an effective enforcement agent."

In addition to asking for financial disclosure by the new director, Common Cause said whoever is selected should pledge to hold no political party office while serving as director, promise not to represent any outside interests before government agencies, agree not to appear before the commission for at least two years after he leaves office and pledge to "vigorously" enforce provisions of the new campaign spending law.

Common Cause also said all the candidates for director should be asked what steps they would take to increase public understanding of the campaign law as well as to boost compliance with its provisions, how they believe the state's far-reaching open meetings law applies to commission meetings and records and what penalties they would seek against candidates who failed to comply with the law.

"We believe that prospective executive directors should pledge themselves to high standards of openness and accountability," Stein worote, "and be required to discuss in specific terms their plans for enforcing the campaign act.

Kemp announced his resignation to enter private business last month, apparently at the commission's request because it was dissatisfied with his performance. Kemp claimed he had been hampered in his job because of lack of funding.

DOWN A BAD ROAD

Spokesmen for the electric light and power industry have repeatedly warned that the technology does not yet exist to permit full compliance with environmental protection standards relative to power plant emissions. They have asked for modification of these standards until technology can catch up. The alternative they have said, will be a worsening of the energy shortage far as electric power is concerned.

These warnings have been substantiated by a staff report of the Federal Power Commission (EPC), which declares that by 1975 electric power supply reserves will be critically deficient in 7 out of 9 electric reliability areas, if continued adherence to Environmental Protection Agency air quality standards is enforced. The report states that needed electric energy reserves usually range from 15 to 25 per cent. Unless environmental standards requirements are modified, these reserve figures will be reduced to 7.4 per cent by 1975. The areas hardest hit will be the East Central Region where reserves will drop from plus 23.1 per cent to minus 27.3 per cent, the Mid- American Pool where reserves are expected to drop from plus 17.3 per cent to minus 14.4 per cent and the Southeastern area where the drop is expected to be from plus 14.4 per cent to a minus 0.9 per cent. The FPC report also stated, "Technology for stack gas scrubbing has not yet demonstrated a reliability compatible with the needs of electric utility operation and, even if prudent to install, industrial capacity to construct scrubbers is insufficient to attain needed coverage..."

The EPC report recommended a pollution control system other than scrubbers for near- term emission controls. Adherence to inflexible environmental standards at the price of reduced energy supplies, which are the key to preserving a livable environment, is a clear example of self- destructive extremism.

STUPIDITY OF AIRING U.S. INTELLIGENCE

By DON OAKLEY

No other country has ever, or could ever, go thrugh the kind of public airing of its intelligence apparatus as the United States has in the past few months. Such a thing would be totally unimaginable in the Soviet Union, and not much more conceivable even in the European democracies.

There is no question that in the kind of world we live in, the U.S. must maintain an effective, dependable—and secure—intelligence system.

But while the Congress, the administration and the CIA ponder just how this is to be accomplished, while at the same time giving the people, through their representatives, better oversight and control over the secret undertakings of the government than they have hitherto had, it is essential that we keep this whole matter of intelligence in perspective.

The best intelligence apparatus in the world is utterly useless if those empowered to act upon the information it provides fail to do so, or with it away, or distort it to make it conform to desired policy or preconceived notions.

Our own recent history provides more than a few examples of this.

Before World War II, the U.S. possessed that dream of all espionage agents, the ability to read the enemy's diplomatic code; in this case the potential enemy was Japan.

Yet during the latter days of 1941, when it was obvious that the Japanese were planning an attack this knowledge was ignored or disbelieved.

Again, in the Vietnam War, the U.S. had abundant and reliable forewarning of the Communist Tet offensive of 1967. But this information was suppressed because it ran counter to what some people wanted to believe, or wanted the country to believe. And again the penalty was the unnecessary loss of many American, as well as Vietnamese, lives.

For all the reputed brilliance of then-Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara and others directing the war, the nation could have been just as well, or as ill, served if someone had simply stood blindfolded and thrown darts at a list of options.

We must also make the distinction between intelligence gathering, which is absolutely vital and not in dispute in the current discussion, and covert activities aimed at changing certain realities we don't like.

The CIA's role in the overthrow of President Allende of Chile, its alleged assassination plots against various national leaders, its secret financial support of anti-Communist politicians, however anti-democratic they may be, its violations of its charter prohibiting domestic spying, its booby-trapped Castro cigars—the list runs the gamut from the obscene to the ludicrous—all these activities have done more to harm America's real interests and to undermine its security than one can conceive happening if we had no intelligence apparatus at all.

Despite all the soul-searching in Washington these days, the question facing Americans is not really that of how a democracy can have an accountable yet effective intelligence system, without running the risk of constant, damaging leaks of secret information.

Nor is it a matter of the quality or reliability of our intelligence people, although there are also instances of their wrongly evaluating data or having been caught napping.

Rather, the question, as it has been throughout history, is the uses or misuses to which a nation puts its intelligence establishment and the military and political information it acquires. And that, of course, ultimately depends upon the wisdom and integrity—nay, the plain common sense—of its leaders.

That requirement alone is enough to give us serious causes for concern about the safety of this Republic

HOT IDEAS TO CUT RISING FUEL BILLS

By DON OAKLEY

Not only has the high cost of housing placed home ownership out of reach for millions of Americans, but many people who already own homes are finding the cost of running them taking increasingly large chunks out of their household budgets.

Addressing a meeting of the National Association of Home Builders in Dallas the other day, Guy O. Mabry, vice president of Owens-Corning Fiberglass Corp., cited the case of a New Jersey homeowner whose annual fuel bills were almost as high as his mortgage payments and warned that "heating and cooling a house may soon become a luxury, unless the nation's builders take immediate steps to effectively reduce home energy consumption."

Mabry calls for a home energy efficiency rating system, similar to Detroit's miles-per-gallon designation, to help consumers. Just as m.p.g. has become the watchword of new car buyers, "e.p.m." (energy-per-month) costs are fast becoming the major concern of today's new home buyer, he says.

For starters, a doubling of current Federal Housing Administration minimum standards for insulation in attics, walls and floors "would have an immediate impact in lowering home energy consumption."

This, of course, would mean more business for the makers of insulation and less business for the energy utilities. But the latter are in little danger of running out of customers for all the energy they can provide in the foreseeable future.

There are also other energy-saving steps builders can take, such as double-paned windows, insulated doors with magnetic weatherstripping and tighter construction to reduce air infiltration.

Nor need the low "e.p.m." house cost more, says Mabry. For instance, the use of 2-by-6 studs on 24-inch centers, instead of the traditional 2-by-4 studs on 16-inch centers, would both accommodate thicker insulation and save significantly on lumber costs.

In addition, because of a more efficient "thermal envelope," heating, ventilating and air-conditioning equipment could be a much lower capacity.

There is a public as well as a private stake in the more efficient use of our energy resources.

Taxpayers are turning down bond issues. Schools are closed to community use during off-hours. Public buildings must close early. Not all of this is due to the cost of energy, to be sure, but energy is an important factor.

It will take ingenuity if money-short communities are to survive this era of scarce and expensive energy, and architects and builders are, in fact, developing new concepts in structural design, furnishing and maintenance to meet the challenge, as well as making more use of old ones.

The substitution of plastic plumbing pipe for metal can save a substantial amount of energy because plastics require only a fraction of the energy it takes to produce metal products.

The insulating properties of carpeting can save up to an eighth of heating fuel requirements. Substitution of fluorescent lights for incandescent bulbs cuts down on electrical consumption and lighting cost.

Buildings with exteriors of mirror glass can bring about a 44 per cent heat reduction. Heat-transfer systems are being designed coupling air-conditioning and heating units to pump warm or cold air from areas where it is not needed to those where it is.

Then there is the use of solar energy for heating and cooling, the possibilities of which we have scarcely begun to explore.

DEMONSTRATING THEIR IGNORANCE

By DON OAKELY

The voice of demonstfator is once again heard in the land, though it is but the faintest echo of what it was at the height of the Vietnam conflict.

While small contingents of demonstrators have picketed or paraded in various cities against U.S. involvement in Angola, there have been no demonstrations in front of the United Nations-which would probably do no good but which might possibly serve to remind that body which country is the real troublemaker in Africa.

As usual, of course, the Soviet Union remains immune from criticism by our native moralists.

Something called "The American Committee on Africa" has urged in newspaper advertisements that Americans "Act Now. Organize. Demonstrate...Tell Congress to cut off all funds for the Angola intervention."

There once was a "Fair Play for Cuba" committee, organized by admirers of that great human liberator, Fidel Castro. There is today, however, no such thing as a "Fair Play for Angola Committee," despite the fact that some 10,000 Cuban troops, under Soviet auspices, are killing Angolas in Angola.

There are any number of reasons why Americans are not about to permit their country to become embroiled in Angola's civil war, and none of them has anything to do with the inane, outworn and pathetic chants of the demonstrators against American "imperialism."

The Angola protestors are not only whipping a dead horse but one that was never even alive.

VETO VARIABLES

Congress has pigeonholed the common situs picketing bill, following its veto by President Ford, and if history runs true to form it will not be resurrected during this administration.

From George Washington to Richard Nixon, American presidents cast 2,257 vetoes, and only about six per cent of them were overidden by Congress, says John R. Lee, a political scientist at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University.

Among Lee's other findings, as reported in Human Behavior magazine:

The use of the veto has been on the increase since the Civil War.

—Democrats use it more than Republicans (Grover Cleveland and Franklin D. Roosevelt have been the biggest veto-wielders).

—Presidents who are elected with substantial electoral vote majorities use the veto more often than others.

—Congress tends to override vetoes more often when times are bad.

Also, the study indicates that presidents who spent many years in Congress before rising to the chief executive's office were generally less inclined to veto, perhaps as a result of the respect they gained for that body.

This last bit of veto lore, as well as some of the other statistics, will have to be updated in light of the Ford administration's record.

Gerald Ford, a Republican, not only spent 25 years in the House of Representatives, but as our first unelected President had no electoral vote majority at all and certainly has presided over bad times.

Yet in his first full year in office, he used the veto on some 16 bills, only three of which were overridden by Congress.

WHY PIONEERS WERE GOOD MARKSMEN

With the nation's 200th anniversary coming up in 1976, there has been speculation on why so many of the pioneers were crack shots, even though they used what appear to us to be primitive weapons.

That's easy.

When a man went into the wilderness with a muzzle loading, single-shot gun and met an angry, attacking grizzly, panther, wolf or other man-killer, he usually got one shot only.

If he killed his atacker, he returned home to demonstrate his marksmanship in neighborhood shooting contests. If he missed--he never had the chance.

Another case of the survival of the fittest. We never heard any more from the poor shots.

NOT WANTED HERE

With St. Louis city jails overcrowded, some of those being held are being placed in county and city jails over the state, some as far away as around St. Joseph.

None were taken in at the Monroe County jail for various reasons, and Monroe Countians, especially residents of Paris, are glad Sheriff Mason didn't agree to board any of them.

The older residents too well remember the prohibition and bootleg days when at one time as many as 20 or 25 law violators from St. Louis were housed here. They practically took the jail apart. At least once, some of them escaped. At other times their friends were general nuisances, insisting on long visits with prisoners, bringing in all sorts of food and articles, crowding the front yard of the courthouse and talking to prisoners on the fourth floor as they looked out the windows of the jail, sometimes using language that was offensive to passersby.

It was neither a pleasant, nor a profitable experience, and our county is doing very well without them, thanks to Sheriff Mason.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
NASA's fishing expedition
with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON— A top space official, who went salmon fishing last year with Boeing big-wigs, tried afterward to award his fishing companions a "wasteful," $200,000 contract.

The inside story is told in confidential memos from the files of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

The memos identify the obliging space official as Jack A. Jones, a quality control chief based in Houston. He was taken fishing by corporate executives during a visit to Boening's Seattle headquarters.

Another space official, Joseph H. Levine, was included on the fishing trip but played no part in seeking the $200,000 contract for his hosts.

The incident was turned into stark drama when the complainant, James Maxwell, suddenly died of a heart attack after he brought the scandal to the attention of NASA investigators. Friends say his diligence in pressing the investigation helped bring on the fatal attack.

Maxwell was upset because his name was listed as the NASA engineer who had requested the $200,000 contract. The money was supposed to be spent for research equipment that he thought was unnecessary. According to a confidential report, he saw "absolutely no need for this purchase request" and considered it "wasteful to spend (the) money."

It was Jones, not Maxwell, who sought the $200,000 contract for Boeing, the documents charge. He allegedly began pushing for the contract immediately after he returned from the fishing trip with Boeing executives.

The outraged Maxwell complained that the use of his name "implicates me in a violation of law." He died before NASA completed its investigtion, which resulted in cancelling the contract. Jones and Levine got off, however, with a mild reprimand.

Footnote: A NASA spokesman confirmed that Jones and Levine were entertained by Boeing on the fishing trip and acknowledged that Jones had sought a $200,000 contract for Boeing after his return. Norman Wynn, one of the Boeing hosts on the salmon excursion, confirmed that it took place, called the affair "insignificant" and hung up on our reporter, Marc Smolonsky. Jones and Levine did not return our calls.

SURVEILLANCE SUBSIDY: When local policemen or prosecutors need special help to spy on alleged criminals, they turn to Uncle Sam for help. During the past seven years, the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) has responded with unusual generosity.

The agency has distributed a staggering total of $160.8 million to support 1,929 intelligence-related projects around the country. The figures were provided to Chairwoman Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., whose Government Information subcommittee is investigating fgederal snooping.

Approximately $2.5 million dollars was earmarked directly for the "purchase of electronic surveillance equipment," according to the LEAA report provided to Abzug.

Incredibly, $1.3 million of the bugging equipment went to states which either prohibited wiretaps or had no specific laws on buggingh.

California, for example, outlaws wiretapping except in unique circumstances. Yet, the federal government gave California authorities $98,596 for sophisticated surveillance equipment.

The California Department of Justice acquired, among other things, ten "beeper" systems, which allow police to follow vehicles at a distance, 15 voice-activated tape recorders, 36 miniature microphones and headsets, and five "intelligence kits" at $2,500 apiece.

Other states which prohibited wiretaps at the time they received their LEAA grants -- Illinois, Kentucky, Louisiana, Michigan and North Carolina -- were supplied with body transmitters, auto tracking devices, and other unspecified "technical surveillance equipment."

Even when money is doled out to states where wiretapping is legal, there is little method to LEAA's mad giveaway. Official bugging is legal, for example, in New Jersey. Ther state authorities spent $206,093 in federal funds to buy eavesdropping equipment to handle 808 authorized wiretaps.

But, the report noted, there was "no correlation between the number of wiretap authorizations and the amount of funds expended for electronic surveillance equipment."

Clearly, LEAA exhibits little control over the local spending and use of the equipment. The report points out, in fact, that 25 states simply refused to provide LEAA with an itemized breakdown for the bugging equipment bought with LEAA money.

PRESIDENTIAL ODDS: Jimmy "The Greek" Snyder, our political oddsmaker, rates President Ford a runaway favorite to win the Republican nomination, with Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., his most likely opponent.

Ford's nomination is such a safe bet, in Jimmy's book, that a betting man would have to put up $3 on the President to win $1.

Anyone wishing to take a risk on Ronald Reagan, on the other hand, could collect $7 on a $2bet. Third in the GOP ratings, at 8 to 1 odds, is Vice President Nelson Rockefeller.

Humphrey is a 2 to 1 favorite to win the Democratic presidential nomination. In other words, a $1 bet would be worth $2 if he is nominated.

He is followed by Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., 4 to 1; Georgia's ex-Gov. Jimmy Carter, 5 to 1; Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., 8 to 1; and Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., 10 to 1.

Alabama's Gov. George Wallace and Texas' Sen. Lloyd Bentsen are far behind, as Jimmy the Greek calculates the odds, with only a 20 to 1 chance of winning the nomination. The other Democratic aspirants are 25 to 1 long shots, except for ex-Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., and Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., whom Jimmy gives only a 50 to 1 chance.

Nuclear Nerves:
Neo-Radicals have own central intelligence communes

WASHINGTON— Suddenly the spectre of a nuclear ripoff by terrorists here and abroad is being taken seriously.

Warnings spring from a prestigious London institute study and from Paris police. Heavy armored tanks and newly beefed-up squads of guards now protect the vast Nevada test site near Las Vegas. Alarms are sounded in confidential reports of the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

The American Enterprise Institute and FBI director Clarence Kelley say the nation must learn to live with terror. Their quiet cautioning words spring from the possibility of small amounts of refined bomb-grade nuclear material being stolen and made into a crude atomic weapon.

The Massachusetts Commission on Nuclear Safety now demands that the state's two nuclear power plants immediately must be more securely protected.

Thus the sentiment of ex-CIA director William Colby becomes intensely significant for the public, and if Sen. Frank Church can take time out of counting possible Democratic convention delegates, they must be pondered by him, too.

Bill Colby said, in effect, that neither he nor "the elephant" (CIA) is harassed too much by what the KGB will learn from intelligence exposures. It's the undisciplined do-it-themselves extremist radicals who worry him.

What national secrets can be kept if at least 24 Senators, 150 Conressmen and about 100 members of their staffs are briefed on ultra-classified information by Henry Kissinger (as he did) or a like amount by Colby?

This gets to the crux of the problem of ever-escalating radicalization. Once there were the Weather People. They had their days of wrath. Now in their "safe houses" they talk of winning greater followings by more peaceful propaganda against the establishment. So they drift into the background, melt into the crowd and claim only an occasional bomb.

But this doesn't mean a "central" has given orders or has the power, even the connections, to send down a directive to cool the bombings. There is no "central." There are many "central" commands. One specialist says, "This is the classic guerrilla cell structure."

And it has wafted up from the Argentine where the hits on industrial targets grow more grim each year. The Weather People have been replaced, many believe, by the little-known New World Liberation Front. It's said to be many fronts -- an "umbrella" structure. The Front claimed 14 bombings in California last year and promises many more. There were other bands. One in Denver bombed a bank, a federal building and one other target.

How do the cells survive? They have "the paper escape--(false identification). Originally an SDS phrase, now commondly used.

Fronts such as these are the activists. They too must have sources of intelligence. These are available.

The "information" comes from the more sophisticated, more intellectual radicals. The "mental" type given to less strenuous radicalization. So we go down the action ladder to the urban guerrilla's own central intelligence apparatus.

Whether or not the data is deliberately culled and published in many forms for the activists, no one can prove. Sufficient to report the central intelligence systems do operate what is known as "rearch collectives." And the young men and women who operate them are bright. They are as cynical as they are skilled. With amusement they create councils, projects, special study groups -- the whole lot. And then successfully solicit grants from some of the most prestigious foundations for sums up to $25,000.

They don't go in for bombings or days of rage. They have their own passions – some very private. But their intelligence research is hurled at the "structure" by the fronts.

One such suspect group, according to a federal document, actually obtained a second generation computer. Its original cost was over $500,000. Today it's worth anywhere between $175,000 and $350,000. It is described as "bite-oriented, 64,000 words in each 24 bites; a storage capacity of 67 million elements per disk."

Program it to expose the CIA, the FBI or National Security Council operations and it becomes the basis for spilling the nation's inner guts. But there's more to the research collectives than computers. They know their research techniques all the way down the line. One of their favorite bits is the use of "Who's Who." From there you can go anywhere.

Most of the collectives are peopled by anti-establishment amateur Marxists. Meaning dedication to the destruction of all classes except the proletariat. And that's where some of those congressional investigative committees should start – with the reading of Hegel polished off by Marx. Old Karl meant it. The collectives mean it. Perhaps this nation must learn to live with the collectives. But why give them a free ride?

Improved gas applicances save energy and money

Almost everyone recognizes the necessity to preserve vital natural resources. And virtually everyone feels the need to cut down on fuel bills to save money.

One way to accomplish both objectives is to replace gas and electric appliances with new energy-saving gas models.

According to the National LP-Gas Association, Chicago, recent innovations in gas ranges, gas water heaters, gas clothes dryers and gas-fired heaters and air conditioners make them more economical than ever before. Newer models consume less fuel and therefore, cost less to operate. In many instances, they're smaller, lighter, more trouble-free and longer-lasting.

Gas-burning appliances are capable of using either natural gas or propane--a liquefied petroleum (LP) gas commonly employed on farms, in small towns, in suburbia and in other areas "beyond the mains." Inexpensive and efficient, propane offers the additional benefit of being easily stored and transported, hence its widespread use in motor homes, house trailers and recreational vehicles.

In every home, there are several major opportunities to conserve energy and reduce household expenses, says the NLPGA. These include cooking, drying clothes, heating (for water), and heating and cooling the living space.

COOKING

Among the most dramatic improvements in kitchen appliances has been the introduction of "pilotless" gas ranges.

Older gas ranges required the continuous burning of a pilot light, which ignited each of the individual cooking units on demand. Fully 30 per cent of all the gas consumed by these older models was consumed by the ever-burning pilot light.

"Pilotless" models now on the market include an electronic ignition system which makes it unnecessary to have a pilot light. The result is less fuel consumption, and hence, less operating cost.

Other recent innovations in gas ranges include improved burners which do not produce the energy loss of older models, and ovens which perform more satisfactorily, yet require less heat than the older units. The improved burners are able to reduce fuel consumption by as much as 39 per cent; the new ovens, by as much as 23 per cent.

Since it costs less to cook with gas than it does to cook with electricity, the potential savings really add up, says the NLPGA. In an area of the country where the gas rate is 14 cents per thermal unit and the electric rate is 4-½ cents per kilowatt hour, a home preparing 30 meals a month will save about $35 a year by cooking with gas.

(The NLPGA has prepared a helpful "Energy Cost Chart" to help you compare the cost of various fuels in your own community. A free copy can be obtained by writing National LP-Gas Association, 79 West Monroe Street, Chicago, Ill. 60603.)

CLOTHES DRYING

Similar electronic ignition systems are now being offered in gas clothes dryers--another area in which substantial energy-and cost-saving improvements are possible.

In the same region of the country as that quoted in the previous example (i.e., where gas rates are 14 cents per thermal unit and electric rates are 4-½ cents per KWH), a household using one of the new gas dryers for four loads of washing per week will spend about $3.60 a year on fuel costs, whereas a household using electricity will spend about $28.30 annually.

HEATING WATER

One other major energy-user in the home is the water heater. But today's newer models have better insulation, better flue baffling and better fuel input ratings than the older models. The result is a water heater that consumes 11 per cent less energy than the older models--at a significant savings in operating cost.

One manufacturer estimates that a new 40-gallon gas water heater will save the owner approximately $450 over the 10-year life span of the appliance.

HEATING

Newer, direct-vented gas space heaters are 5 to 30 per cent less expensive to operate than older, conventionally-vented models which are equipped with draft diverters. The reason is that less room heat is exhausted--and thereby wasted--outdoors.

Other fuel economies can be achieved by using radiant heating in lieu of or in addition to forced air heating, and by using a greater number of smaller heaters in order to achieve better heat distribution.

Clean-burning gas--either natural or LP (propane)--is far less expensive than electricity for home heating, and in many parts of the country can compete favorably with fuel oil and even coal on a cost basis. (The NLPGA has prepared a list of ways in which to winterize your home for greatest heating efficiency. A free copy can be obtained by writing National LP-Gas Association, 79 West Monroe St., Chicago, Illinois 60603.)

AIR CONDITIONING

Considering that a 1955 dollar would have only 50 cents' worth of buying power today, the 20-year-old system actually cost the purchaser nearly three times what a comparable unit costs today.

In 1955, most air conditioning installations also included a cooling tower--a combination of equipment that weighed close to 2,700 pounds. Today's three-ton gas air conditioning system which no longer requires a cooling tower, weighs about 550 pounds--or more than a ton less than its 20-year-old predecessor.

The 1955 air conditioner required about 108 cubic feet of space, plus an additional 73.5 cubic feet for the cooling tower. Today's unit can go in a total area of 26.25 cubic feet.

Whether it's for heating and cooling, cooking, clothes drying, or heating water, new gas appliances are a better buy than ever before, advises the NLPGA. They consume less fuel than older models, either gas or electric, and provide savings in two ways: They conserve critical fossil fuels and reduce household operating costs.

Bess Truman turns 91

INDEPEDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Bess Truman celebrates her 91st birthday today.

The former First Lady is in remarkably good health, close friends say. She moves about with a cane she has used since being troubled by arthritis several years ago.

The same quiet celebration Mrs. Truman has preferred in years past was indicated for this observance — flowers and telephone calls from family and friends.

"The house will be full of flowers and she'll get a call from Margaret (Truman Daniel, Mrs. Truman's daughter)," said Mary F. Wallace, Mrs. Truman's sister-in-law. Mrs. Wallace expected to visit Mrs. Truman because "we always exchange gifts."

Mrs. Ardis Haukenberry, a cousin of Harry Truman and one of Mrs. Truman's closest friends, said: "I told Bess I wasn't going to send her a birthday card because I knew she would answer it. So I just call her with my birthday wish."

Demurely simple or lavishly romantically ruffled. Choose the long or short version and draw lots of attention in this graceful shape.

Rebecca Story

CHARLESTON— Mr. and Mrs. Sam E. Story announce the engagement of their daughter, Rebecca Jane to James Mark Dugan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glennon Dugan of Wyatt.

Miss Story is a Charleston High School graduate and is a student majoring in history at Sophie Newcomb College at New Orleans, La., where she is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

Dugan, a Charleston High School graduate, attended Southeast Missouri State University at Cape Girardeau. He presently farms.

A May 29 wedding is planned.

Bridge winners

First--Nanette Morris of Sikeston and Bea Depro of Matthews.

Second--Thelma Brown and Effie Bobb of Charleston.

Third--David Morris of Sikeston and Bill Depro of Matthews.

Fourth--Mary Goodin and Margaret Rowling of Charleston.

All bridge players are invited to attend every Thursday night at 7 p.m. in Room 201 at the Ramada Inn.

The federal judicial system begins with the district court. There are 94 of these courts, at least one in each state.

Eyes & diabetes meeting topic

Dr. Nat Snider of Sikeston will talk on the eyes and diabetes at 7 p.m. Tuesday in Missouri Delta Community Hospital. Diabetes is the second leading cause of new blindness and the meeting is sponsored by the Delta Community Branch of the SeMo Diabetes Association.

The U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y. was founded in 1802.

The father, Willie L. Cates, 22, took one of the baby girls from the nursery at St. Joseph Hospital, pushed aside a nurse and fled from the hospital, authorities said.

The twins, Millie Lula and Anna Marie, were to be picked up today by social workers for the Kansas Department of Social and Rehabilitation Services on orders of Juvenile Court Judge Michael Corrigan.

Corrigan said a petition was filed in juvenile court Wednesday alleging the twins had been abandoned by their mother, Ruth Ann Cates, 31, and that the mother was mentally and emotionally incapable of assuming responsiblity for their care.

Jim Reed, a spokesman for St. Joseph Hospital, said Cates was called today by nursers caring for the twins and told state social workers were taking the children into temporary custody pending juvenile court hearings.

"He said he wanted to help dress them," Reed said. "He took both children in his arms to hold them and then with a sudden motion, he tossed Anna Marie on a bed, pushed the nurses out of the way and ran from the nursery."

Cates cluthced Millie Lula to his chest as he dashed past security guards and ran down two flights of stairs and out an exit to a waiting car, Reed said.

Reed said hospital officials immediately called police and gave them a description of the car and the father.

The twin girls were born Nov. 7 joined at the abdomen. They were the 20th pair of Siamese twins successfully separated by urgeons in medical history, when a team of 12 doctors severed the joining flesh and a portion of liver shared by the two girls.

Hospital officials said the twins have made an excellent recovery from the surgery Jan. 26 and were ready to leave the hospital when the incident occurred today.

Husband in drag startles spouse

Dear Ann Landers: I came home from a trip two days early. When I walked into the apartment I found my husband dressed in my best evening gown. He was wearing my fanciest jewelry, also my wig. When I tell you I nearly died of the shock, you can believe it.

Without saying a word, he handed me a column of yours that appeared a few years back. (I never saw it, but obviously he did.) "This will explain everything," he said, and left the room.

Here is the column, but it doesn't "explain everything." Please add some words I can hang on to while I'm trying to keep my sanity. – Marge

Dear Ann: A nice young man was arrested recently because he was wearing women's clothing while sitting in a public park. Someone started a fight with him and he flattened the guy.

As a fashion historian I can tell you that everything women wear today was once worn by males. Even corsets. During the Crusades, when men donned suits of armor they had to wear heavy undergarments to protect their bodies against the chafing of the metal. Christopher Columbus wore bloomers and long stockings. George Washington wore lace blouses and carried a silk handkerchief in his sleeve. He also wore a ribbon in his hair. Men's high heels are not new. They go back to the French Revolution. Even in the bird kingdom the male's plumage is fancier than the female's. The peacock is the best example.

So please, Ann, tell your readers that before they classify a person as "peculiar" they should stop and consider the possibility that he may be a man ahead of his time" -- F.H.

Dear Marge: Your husband may well be "a man ahead of his time" but for now you must accept the fact that he is a transvestite.

Some behavioral specialists say all transvestites are practicing homosexuals. Other say they're not – that they get their jollies dressing up, and that's as far as they go.

You offer no information about your husband's habits, his friends, how long you've been married or whether you could tolerate this sort of thing if he dressed up only at home.

I hope you discuss this matter with a therapist before you make any decisions. I'm not suggesting that your husband accompany you for counseling because transvestites aren't interested in changing. The best you can expect is that he will agree not to appear in drag in your presence, if you ask him not to.

Dear Ann Landers: Frequently you advise students to go to their school guidance counselors with their problems. I teach in college. Frequently I hear students speak very disparagingly of their high-school guidance counselors. The most common complaint is that they blab.

If you continue to advise students to confide in their guidance counselors, I hope you will advise counselors to keep their mouths shut. -- Disillusioned

Dear D.: Such betrayal is unconscionable and inexcusable. Any counselor who blabs should be sacked immediately -- assuming, of course, that the evidence is conclusive.

Lilbourn rallies to win 74-70

Hornet upset bid falls short

By BILL HARRISON

ADVANCE--- The heavily favored Lilbourn Panthers ran into a hustling, determined undermanned Advance Hornet team here Thursday night and barely came out of the game alive with a hard fought 74-70 victory.

It was the first meeting of the two defending state champions in their respective classes and the game livened up to the pregame billing as the Advance defense was pitted against the high powered Lilbourn offense led by Frankie Robinson.

Advance was without Steve Cookson, their starting guard who was at home in bed with a case of hepatitis, but coach Carroll Cookson devised a new offense which seems to be faster moving and the scores of the last two games have reflected their speed in the final scores.

The game started slowly as neither team could get offensively untracked in the first couple of minutes, but after a see-saw battle the Advance Hornets roared to a quick 13-8 lead which they never relinquished until there was less than three minutes left in the game. Ronnie Veal fouled out of the game with Advance ahead by three points 65-62 and Robinson quickly went to work and erased the advantage.

Veale played Robinson man to man and jammed up the high scoring all-stater with his quick hands through the first three quarters and a half.

Advance's talented sophomore Mark Robins ran into foul trouble early trying to defense the big men inside for Lilbourn and coach JCookson had to dip into his thin bench for a replacement. This gave the Panthers yet another advantage but nevertheless they couldn't get enough baskets to close the gap to more than three points until late in the third period.

Veale kept the Hornets out in front most of the first half with his outside push shots which were on target and junior Lonnie Daniels, who perhaps played his best game of his career, worked inside for the offensive rebounds, putting up the easy layups and doing a yeoman job on the defensive boards.

Advance led by five points until a shot from 30 feet was hit in desperation as the buzzer sounded to pull the Panthers to within three, 23-20 at the close of the first quarter.

With four Advance starters distributing the scoring among themselves in the second quarter the Hornets enjoyed a six point, 44-38 halftime lead.

Advance came out in the second half a little cold offensively but still managed to take a 56-50 lead before Lilbourn scored four straight points to trail by only two 56-54.

Lilbourn didn't catch up until Don Treadwell scored a layup with 5:08 left in the game to give the Panthers a 62-61 advantage. The lead changed hands several times the next few minutes until there was 1:35 left and the score was tied 70-70.

Advance threw the ball away a couple of times after that and Lilbourn was able to cash in on freethrows the rest of the remaining time for the win.

Advance outscored the Panthers from the field 28-26 but Lilbourn hit 22 of 25 freethrows to 16 of 23 for Advance.

Frankie Robinson led Lilbourn with 24 points followed by Jim Baker with 15 and Don Treadwell with 14.

Advance was led by Terry Hill with 19, Steve Vavak and Ronnie Veale with 16 apiece and Lonnie Daniels with 13.

Senath- Hornersville moves into finals of Dunklin Co. Tourney

MALDEN — Senath- Hornersville will send both their A and B teams into the finals of the Dunklin County Tournament Saturday night as both teams picked up semifinal victories Thursday evening. The Lions' jayvee squad tripped Clarkton 58-41, and the varsity followed suit with a 68-48 win over Southland.

Clarkton's B team stayed close to Senath in the first quarter before the stronger Lion squad began to pull away in the second quarter. Senath- Hornersville had a 30-21 halftime lead and added to it by four in each of the third and fourth quarters.

Johnson fired in 19 to lead the Lions, while Duckworth added 13 and Jenkins scored 12. Eight players scored for Clarkton, but none were in double figures.

In the varsity contest, Senath again broke the game wide open in the second quarter after hold a less- than comfortable lead after the opening frame. The Lion outscored Southland 39-20 over the middle two periods as they roared to any easy victory and into the finals.

Ralph Armour scored 17 to lead the Senath- Hornersville attack that saw ten players get in on the scoring action. Robert Duckworth added 14 and Ralph Droke threw in 10.

Semifinal round play concludes tonight as Malden meets Southland in a junior varsity game at 6:30, followed by a varsity battle between Clarkton and Malden at 8:00. The tournament will end Saturday night with the consolation and championship games.

Winter games continue

INNSBRUCK (AP) — Canada's Kathy Kreiner edged Rosi Mittermaier by 12-hundredths of a second, ending the West German's bid for an unprecedented sweep of the three women's Alpine skiing events. And the United States, blanked through the first three events of the day, waited in expectation of a gold medal performance by Dorothy Hamill tonight at the 12th Winter Olympics.

Jan Egil Storholt of Norway won the gold medal in the 1,500-meter speed skating and the Soviet Union picked up a gold in the 30-kilometer (18.6 miles) biathlon relay as these Games moved through the next-to-last full day of competition.

Also scheduled for today were the first two of four runs in the four-man bobsled event and three Group B hockey games.

With only the figure skating remaining among the finals on today's schedule, the Soviet Union led the medal standings with 12 gold and 26 total medals, followed by East Germany with six gold and 15 medals over-all.

The United States was third with two golds and a total of nine, three short of its all-time total of 12 won in 1932 at Lake Placid, N.Y. Prospects for breaking that record dimmed considerably today when Americans failed to crack the top three in the day's first three events.

Dan Carroll's fifth-place finish in the 1,500 and Lindy Cochran's 13th in the giant slalom were the top American finishes.

Miss Kreiner, who hadn't won a big race since 1974, flashed down the icy trail over the Hoadl Mountain course with its 49 gates in 1 minute 29.13 seconds to give Canada its first gold of these Games. Miss Mittermaier took the silver in 1:29.25 and Daniele Debernard of France won the bronze in 1:29.95.

Miss Mittermaier, the personable 25-year-old veteran of the European ski wars, lost her chance to become the first woman ever to capture the three Alpine ski events. She won the downhill Sunday and the slalom Wednesday. Only two men have ever won the triple, Toni Sailer of Austria in 1956 and Jean-Claude Killy of France in 1968.

"There were a lot of people here who may have expected me to win three gold medals, but I am very happy with two golds and a silver," said Miss Mittermaier. "I had not expected anything like this before the Olympics."

Asked if she had regrets about depriving the popular Miss Mittermaier of her third gold, Miss Kreiner said: "No regets at all. I think there was some room in there for me."

Mustangs upset Hayti in Bootheel JV action

STEELE-- North Pemiscot upset top-seeded Hayti in a B bracket game and Hayti's varsity defeated Lilbourn in semifinal round action in the Bootheel Conference Tournament at South Pemiscot High School in Steele Thursday night. The Mustang B team was a 42-41 winner, while the varsity score was 69-54 in favor of Hayti.

In the B game, Rick Brockett of North Pemiscot came off the bench to ignite a fourth-quarter rally that carried the Mustangs into the finals Saturday night. Hayti had led at the end of a defense oriented first half by a 20-11 score and were still ahead by eight going into the fourth quarter. But the inspired North Pemiscot substitutes played tenaciously on defense and got an offensive lift from Brocket, who hit a pair of field goals and four big freethrows to account for all of his eight points in the fourth period. Billy Shavers of the Mustangs hit a layup after an offensive rebound with six seconds left to put North Pemiscot ahead.

Verry McHugh led the Mustangs with 11 points, while Ed Graham added 10. Alex Kimball scored 14 to lead all scorers for Hayti.

Hayti started out slowly in the varsity game before erupting in the second half and moving to an easy victory over Caruthersville. The Indians trailed 15-14 going into the second period, but Hayti outscored them 16-10 in that frame to take a 30-25 halftime lead. The Indians broke the game wide open in the third quarter, holding the Tigers to only seven points and going ahead by twelve. Hayti added three more markers to their winning margin by scoring 25 in a wild fourth quarter.

Sylvester James flipped home 21 to help send Hayti into Saturday night's finals. Waymon Robinson added 14 and Kennett Higgins threw in 12 to help out. Don Tyes scored 16 and Buddy Knox had 14 for Caruthersville.

Delta C-7 meets Cooter at 6:30 in a jayvee game and South Pemiscot takes on North Pemiscot in an 8:00 varsity game as semifinal round play concludes tonight. The tournament finals are scheduled for Saturday evening.

SHS B team loses

JACKSON — The host Jackson Indians, seeded second in their own tournament, overpowered Sikeston in the second half to gain a 72-59 victory and move into the finals of the Jackson Invitational Junior Varsity Tournament. The Indians will play top-seeded Illmo- Scott City at 8:00 Saturday evening in the championship game. The Rams won their semifinal contest Thursday night by beating Notre Dame 52-43.

The score was tied at 36-36 at the half, but the Indians turned in on in the third quarter. Outscoring the Bulldogs 19-11, Jackson pave into an eight point lead, which they tacked five more markers onto in the fourth period.

Scott Gordon bombed home 25 for the Indians, while Mike Henderson and Sam Birk had 10 apiece. For the Bulldogs, junior Tim Ward fired in 24 for the Bulldogs, while Morrell Baker added 14 and Kenny Lane threw in 10 for the losers.

Sikeston plays Notre Dame at 6:30 Saturday night in the consolation game, followed by the championship contest between Jackson and Illmo-Scott City at 8:00.

Kennett visits Charleston for SeMo conference

By BILL HARRISON

CHARLESTON— The circular gymnasium inside the Charleston High School causes the Bluejay basketball court to have the appearance of being shorter than it actually is to some fans but Charleston opponents realize that it isn't as many teams have bit the dust since the new schools construction.

Friday night will be one of the most important games, if not the most important, of the season as the Kennett Indians come into town for a SEMO conference game.

Charleston knows all about the Indians and the Indians know all about the Bluejays so there won't be any feeling each other out after the ball is tipped off to start the crucial battle between the top 3A clubs in southeast Missouri and the top two teams in the conference.

Coach Mitch Haskins of the Bluejays and coach Terry Turlington of the Indians have already met once this season and the game was in doubt until the final buzzer as Kennett won the first meeting in the finals of the Poplar Bluff Invitational Tournamanet in January by a score of 52-50 on a shot with six seconds left in the game.

Last year the same two teams met for the championship of the PBHS tourney with Charleston winning by four points. The second time the teams played each other in conference play the Indians won. But the third time the teams played each other on the year was in the finals of the Dexter 3A regional tournament and everyone knows by now who won that one as the Bluejays went on to capture the state championship.

In the first meeting of the two teams at Poplar Bluff, Robert Roundtree spent a good eeal of the game on the bench with personal fouls, but still ended the game with a total of 17 points. Roundtree and David Allen are returning starters from last year while Charleston has only one returnee from last year in Ricky Frazier.

Coach Turlington has five seniors starting against the Bluejays. The big man being Roundtree. Allen is the guard that the Indians depend on for scoring and playmaking. Inside the Indians have 6-1 Roland Johnson. Bob Williams, a 6-0 forward, quit the team recently and will be missed.

The Kennett starters are as quick as any team in the area and have good rebounding power.

It'll be quickness against quickness and if coach Haskins will turn his Bluejays loose against the Indians the fans are in for a real speedy contest to say the least.

Charleston is anchored by 6-6 junior Ricky Frazier. Frazier has had his bad nights this season but is capable of completely dominating a ball game with his agility and quickness. He has demonstrated his basketball ability to numerous fans in the area so far.

Charleston has a height advantage on the Indians man for man as the Bluejays other two forwards stand at 6-3. Percy Owens, who has been playing better the last two games after being benched earlier for lack of consistency is a good shooter and good rebounder. Owens is only a junior. The other forward position is held down by sophomore Danny Farmer. Farmer is a good shooter and rebounder as well with good quickness and looks like a great prospect for Charleston the next two seasons. If Charleston has a weakness it is youth. Coach Haskins starts two sophomores and three juniors and only Frazier has any varsity experience of the four starters.

The Bluejays have as good a guard tandem as is in the area in junior Michael Smith and sophomore Michael Dean. Smith is the playmaker and the shooter. He has tremendous speed and quickness. Dean is as quick but lacks the maturity of Smity. Coach Haskins has a bench that causes other coaches in the area to wish for. Haskins can send in 6-4 BEn Bruenderman if he needs board strength. Wilbert McCain, at 6-3 is another player that the Bluejays have been depending on as of late. McCain is only a junior but can jump with anybody on the team. His only weakness is inexperience as he didn't play any last year.

If Charleston wins they will have clinched the SEMO conference title but if Kennett wins the race will be in a two way tie between the two teams and could very well end that way. Kennett has lost one game and Charleston is undefeated.

It has been reported that this is the last year for Terry Turlington to coach at Kennett so the win would be a big one for him.

If coach Haskins doesn't win this one then he will get one more chance in the most important one of them all, the 3A regional. If the Bluejays don't win that one then it'll be "wait until next year" time.

The Sikeston Bulldog wrestling team will send twelve of its members to the 2-A District Tournament at Lindbergh, where action begins late today and will conclude tomorrow night. Kneeling from left to right are the two team managers, followed by Scott Hutchison, Tony DeLaRosa, Harold Myrick, Ken Hodgkiss, Dan Bridger and Joe Blanton. Standing, from left, to right are coach John Heacox, Loomis Mayfield, Kevin Heuiser, Don Hankins, Linzie Lambert, Mark Silverthorn, Bill Paxton and David Hammon. Also going to district but not pictured are Gaylon Couch, Tony Taylor and David Overbey. (Daily Standard photo)

PORTAGEVILLE— Grady Williford pumped in 13 of his 23 points in the fourth quarter Thursday night as the East Prairie Eagles came from behind to beat Portageville 58-54 at Portageville.

East Prairie had gone ahead 27-20 at the half, but the Bulldogs played much better basketball in the third period. Taking advantage of a cold-shooting quarter by the EAgles, Portageville spurted into a 37-35 lead at the end of the quarter.

It looked as if things were going Portageville's way early in the fourth quarter as they led by as much as six in the period. But Williford and the Eagles caught fire, scoring 23 in the final eight minutes to overhaul the Bulldogs and come away with the win.

First Methodist to host district pre-Lenten rally

Dr. Glenn "Tex" Evans of Nashville, Tenn., will be the speaker at a pre-Lenten rally at 3:30 p.m. Sunday in First United Methodist Church, Highway 61 North — one of 27 such rallies scheduled Sunday in the 17 United Methodist districts of Missouri.

Music by the chancel choir of First United Methodist Church will be featured in the local rally.

The rally here is sponsored by the 73 United Methodist Churches in the Poplar Bluff-Sikeston District and, like the other rallies around the state, was called by Bishop Robert E. Goodrich Jr., United Methodist episcopal leader for the Missouri area, in preparation for the Lenten season which begins Ash Wednesday, March 3, and continues through Easter Sunday, April 18.

Each of the 1,100 churches in the state has been asked to bring to the rallies a copy of its plan or program of evangelism during the Lenten season for dedication with prayer at an altar service.

Each rally will hear a taped message of inspiration and instruction by Bishop Goodrich, and at most of the rallies, the Missouri episcopal leader's remarks will be accompanied by projected slides.

Also, during the afternoon, a long- distance call will provide reports of what is happening, including the number of persons present at the other16 district rallies.

Pastors of the 73 churches in the Poplar Bluff- Sikeston District will lead bus and-or auto caravans from their parishes to the district rally here.

Guest ministers will deliver the sermon at each location, and special music will be provided at many of the services by a mass choir composed of singers from churches in the district.

The other rally locations include: Arnold, Aurora, Cameron, Carthage, Chillicothe, Farmington, Festus, Gallatin, Independence, Kirksville, Kirdwood, Manchester, Marionville, Marshall, Maryville, Mexico, Neosho, Nevada, Pond, Rolla, St. Joseph, St. Louis (2), Sedalia, Springfield and Union.

Bishop Jones to visit St. Paul's

The Rt. Rev. William A. Jones Jr., bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Missouri will celebrate the Holy Communion, preach and confirm five persons in a 4 p.m. service Sunday at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, 1100 N. Main St.

After the service, the Episcopal Churchwomen will have a dinner in the parish house honoring the bishop, the new confirmands and the congregation and friends.

Following the dinner, the bishop and the entire congregation will go to the vicarage, the home of St. Paul's new vicar, the Rev. William L. Sharkey, Mrs. Sharkey and their daughter Hilary, where the Bishop will bless the vicarage. Dessert and coffee and punch will be served to all those present, and the Sharkeys will have an open house.

This will be Bishop Jones' first annual visit to St. Paul's since he was consecrated and his new ministry was celebrated at St. Paul's on May 18 of last year.

Arrangements for the dinner are being made by Mrs. Carl Muench, Mrs. Robert Jenkins and Mrs. Dan Rosenstein.

Arthur Wallhausen Jr. of Charleston will be the organist for the occasion. He and his son, Arthur III, will provide music on the organ and recorder before and during the service.

Eastside Nazarene plans film

"The Coming Invasion of Israel", a hard-hitting film dealing with today's headlines in the Middle East, will be shown at 7 p.m. Sunday at Eastside Church of the Nazarene, located at the corner of Ralph and Betty streets.

Using the Bible as a prophetic background, the movie reveals God's plan for Israel as disclosed in Ezekial 36-39 and Daniel 11, in relation to the grave crisis the nation faces today.

The film also reviews the rise of Russia from a broken nation little more than 20 years ago to one of the great military and political powers in history and explores what the Bible says about this great power and how it fits into God's plan.

The Prayer

"First take the log out of your own eye." (Matthew 7:5, RSV)

PRAYER: Dear Lord, help us to walk close to You. Help us to live in such a way that other people will believe in You and experience Your fellowship. Amen.

Youth to lead Miner church in revival

The youth will lead weekend revival services tonight, Saturday night and Sunday at Miner Baptist Church located at the intersection of Route H and Highway 62 East.

An evangelistic team from Southwest Baptist College at Bolivar will provide the music and sermons for the services which will begin at 7 tonight and Saturday night. Bob Perry of Charleston heads the college team.

This is the annual youth week in the church when all the offices and places of responsibilities are filled by the youth.

Youth leaders this week are: youth pastor, Bill Mills; Sunday School director, Gary Pickett; church training director, Dewayne Self; pianist, Lea Ann Matthews; and organist, Teresa Self.

The following will lead in these positions in Sunday School and church training:

Sunday School general secretary, Linda Green; nursery teachers, Teresa Cole and Wendy Baker; preschool teachers, Belinda Landers and Sherril Gray; children's teacher, Andrea Wheeler; youth division I director, Randy Northcutt; youth division I teachers, Tammy Allen and Carolyn Dupont; youth division I secretary, Dewayne Self; youth division I pianist, Tammy Allen.

Youth division II director, Gary Pickett; youth division II teachers, Lea Ann Matthews and Donna Romanowski; youth division II secretary, Dewayne Self; single adults teacher, Jim Matthews; young adults director, Art Romanowski; youth adult teachers, Cristy Baker, Sandy Allen, Lewis McMikle and Mike Wilson; young adults secretary, Dwayne Self.

Young married couples and college and career class teachers, Bob Huddleston and Teresa Self; ladies I teacher, Janet Huff; ladies II teacher, Dawn Romanowski; and men's class teacher, Rob Newman.

Teaching in church training classes will be:

Nursery, Andrea Wheeler; preschool, Tammy Allen; children -- grades 1-3, Donna Romanowski and Carolyn Dupont; children -- grades 4-5, Teresa Self and Belinda Landers; junior youth, Cristy Baker and Linda Green; and adults, Dewayne Self and Lea Ann Matthews.

Derrell Chapman is youth director, and Mrs. Don Self directs the youth choir. Ronald Bloemer is the youth Sunday School teacher, and the Rev. Grady Etheridge is the church pastor.

Nursery care will be provided.

First Baptist plans No Excuse Sunday

Feb. 29 will be No Excuse Sunday, a Sunday School attendance promotion, at First Baptist Church, 1101 N. Main St., Mark Tappmeyer, minister of youth and education, and Charles Chaney, Sunday School director, have announced.

The event will feature a covered-dish luncheon and an afternoon musical program and will culminate a month-long Five Fabulous Sundays attendance campaign by the church's Sunday School department.

The month of February has not had five Sundays since 1948 and will not do so again until 2004. In recognition of the occasion jointly with the Bicentennial celebration this year, Bicentennial certificats will be awarded to all who attend Sunday School all five Sundays this month.

On Feb. 29, the luncheon at noon will follow Sunday School at 9:15 a.m. and the morning worship service at 10:30. After the luncheon, the musical program at 1:15 p.m. will feature a college musical group from First Baptist Church in Cape Girardeau.

The musical program will conclude the day's activities, and no evening services will be conducted.

Among the features of No Excuse Sunday, when all Sunday School members are expected to be present, will be:

--A cot set up in the lobby for those who say Sunday is the only day they can sleep late.

--Murine provided for those with tired eyes from watching TV too late On Saturday night.

--Scorecards for listing the names of all hypocrites present.

--And numerous other items to negate common excuses.

Former Malden man minister in Canada

KINGSTON, Ontario— Doyle Crawford, Ontario, has been appointed to serve as full-time minister of the Church of Christ in Kingston. The 31-year-old minister and his wife Dewona are former Malden, Mo., residents.

Mr. and Mrs. Crawford moved to Jellico, Tenn., in September 1968 to assist Jack Hilliard, former Malden Church of Christ minister, in mission work at Jellico.

The Crawfords later moved to Allgood, Tenn., and there served the church for three years while Crawford received two years of ministerial training at East Tennessee School of Preaching and Missions in Knoxville.

In December 1975 the family moved to Canada.

Crawford graduated from Malden High School in 1962 and is a former employe of the Sterling Aluminum plant, now Federal-Mogul, Inc.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ulis Crawford of Malden. Mrs. Crawford's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William Ryan of Malden Route Two.

The couple has two sons, Derek and Douglas.

Malden church to host Youth Week meetings

MALDEN— Youth Week will be observed from Saturday through Feb. 22 at First Pentecostal Church, and "Crown Him Lord" will be the theme for the week.

The Rev. Travis Smith of Houston, Tex., a third-year student at the Texas Pentecostal Bible College, will be guest speaker for the services.

Youth week is a time when the youth of the church take an active part in the services.

An old-fashioned street service will be held Saturday afternoon during which the youth will sing and distribute invitations and tracts.

A scrapbook is compiled of each activity during youth week. Dian Curtis, Teresa McDonald and Paula Coffer will serve as co-editors. Bobby Rice and Tonya Garris will serve as prayer captains. The youth will give speeches relating to the theme each night.

Services will be held at 7:30 nightly except Monday. The Sunday evening service will begin at 7 o'clock.

Revival to open Sunday

MOREHOUSE— Revival services will begin Sunday and continue through Feb. 22 at the Morehouse Assembly of God Church. Services will be conducted each night except Monday.

The Rev. Danny Brooks of Scott City will be the evangelist, and the Rev. R. A. McAnulty is pastor.

2-night revival slated

BERTRAND— Revival services will be conducted tonight and Saturday night at the Bertrand Church of God of Prophecy in connection with the International Youth Week program of the church.

Londa Richardson will be the evangelist.

Vatican rejects declaration

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican today formally rejected a condemnation of Zionism and a call for an Arab Jerusalem declared by the Christian-Moslem conference held in Tripoli, Libya, last week.

A 12-member delegation from the Vatican headed by Sergio Cardinal Pignedoli attended the five-day conference sponsored by Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy.

Area Baptists to hold 25th annual fellowship

DEXTER — National (Negro) Baptists and Southern Baptists in Southeast Missouri will meet Feb. 19 for a special all-day fellowship at First Baptist Church, 11 W. Castor.

The program this year will emphasize the 200th anniversary of our nation and will mark the 25th anniversary of organized work between National and Southern Baptists in Southeast Missouri.

The services will begin at 9:45 a.m., and a fellowship luncheon will be served at noon. The afternoon session, beginning at 1:15, will feature conferences on prayer and stewardship.

Guest speakers for the morning session will be the Revs. Ira Singleton and Donald Hunter. The Rev. Mr. Singleton is pastor of First Baptist Church at Caruthersville and is a former missionary to Africa. The Rev. Mr. Hunter is an outstanding National Baptist leader and serves as pastor of First Baptist Church of Maplewood (St. Louis). Mrs. Hunter, a noted musician, will present special music at the morning session.

The Rev. Donald Cochran, pastor of First Southern Baptist Church at Malden, will be the featured speaker at the afternoon session.

The night session will emphasize youth. Pre-session music will be presented at 6:45 p.m. by the youth choir from Miner Baptist Church. The regular program, beginning at 7 o'clock, will feature John Woods as special youth speaker.

Woods, a student at Southwest Baptist College in Bolivar, was saved from a life of drug addiction about two years ago and since his conversion has conducted over 75 revivals.

John Woods

Special music for the night session will be provided by National and Southern Baptist youth choirs and the Southern Singers from Southern Baptist College at Walnut Ridge, Ark.

A special offering will be received at the morning and night sessions for the SeMo Baptist Camp near Poplar Bluff. The SeMo Camp Committee has adopted a building fund goal of $10,000 to rebuild and enlarge a dormitory which was destroyed by fire several months ago.

The SeMo Baptist Fellowship is a part of the cooperative ministry between National and Southern Baptists for the state of Missouri. Dr. Loren J Belt serves as state director of the Department of Work with National Baptists for the Missouri Baptist Convention with offices in Jefferson City. The Rev. Otis L Hawes Jr. of Poplar Bluff serves as director of the fellowship in Southeast Missouri.

Belt says, "We are grateful for the Christian fellowship which exists between National Baptists and Southern Baptists in this area of the state. The Lord has blessed this cooperative ministry during the past 25 years and greater things are yet to come in the future. We look forward to a great day of fellowship in Dexter on Feb. 19."

There are six Southern Baptist associations and three National Baptist associations affiliated with this interracial ministry. Southern Baptist associations, with the directors of missions, are as follows: Black River,the Rev. Owen Sherrill, Kennett; Cane Creek- Stoddard, the Rev. George Arthur Dexter; Cape Girardeau, the Rev. G. D. Parrack; Charleston, the rev. Jack Bishop, Benton; New Madrid, the Rev. Bill Wehmeyer, Portageville; and Madrid, the Rev. Bill Wehmeyer, Portageville; and Wayne County (vacant).

The three National Baptist associations and their moderators are: Christian Liberty, the Rev. J. L. Nabors, Sikeston; Friendship- Consolidated, the Rev. Quincy Keeble, Broseley; and Pemiscot- Dunklin, the Rev. E. D. Boxley, Hayti.

Full gospel meeting set

The Sikeston chapter of Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship International will meet at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the Heritage House, 305 Cresap Place.

The Rev. Hugh E. Cerutti, pastor of First Assembly of God Church in Farmington, will be the speaker. The Rev. Mr. Cerutti began preaching when he was 16 years old. He attended Central Bible Institute in Springfield.

Presently, he is assistant presbyter of the Flat River Section of the Southern Missouri District of the Assemblies of God and has served as presbyter and area youth leader for the Assemblies of God.

The Rev. Mr. Cerutti has a daily radio broadcast, "The Strength of God's Word", and a weekly broadcast, "Presenting Christ", on radio station KREL.

The meeting is open to men and women of all denominations.

The POWER of FAITH

BY WOODI ISHMAEL

THE BIBLE

No. 226. The Book of Proverbs: Discipline

Many of the admonitions found in the book of Proverbs are maxims or aphorisms which specifically emphasize desirable character traits or modes of conduct. Because it is a requisite for wisdom and the good life, discipline is highly prized by the wise.

The sage who addressed himself to the topic of discipline taught that corporal punishment is the appropriate method of disciplining a child. "Apply thine heart unto instruction, and thine ears to the words of knowledge. Withhold not correction from the child: for if thou beatest him with the rod, he shall not die. Thou shalt beat him with the rod, and shalt deliver his soul from hell." (Proverbs 23:12-14)

However, another important aspect of discipline involves constructive criticism. "The ear that heareth the reproof of life abideth among the wise. He that refuseth instruction despiseth his own soul: but he that heareth reproof getteth understanding. The fear of the Lord is the instruction of wisdom; and before honour is humility." (Proverbs 15:31-33)

Today in U.S. history

By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, Feb. 13., the 44th day of 1976. There are 322 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1689, the English Parliament adopted a Bill of Rights.

On this date:

In 1633, the Italian astronomer, Galileo, arrived in Rome and was detained by the Roman Catholic inquisition.

In 1635,the first public school in America, the Boston Public Latin School, was founded.

In 1741, Andrew Bradford of Philadellphia published the first magazine in the United States.

In 1920, the League of Nations recognized the perpetual neutrality of Swtizerland.

In 1945, in World War II, the Soviets captured Budapest, Hungary, from the Germans after a 50-day siege.

In 1962, the United States rejected a Soviet proposal that 18 heads of state meet in Geneva to discuss disarmament.

Ten years ago: Vice President Hubert Humphrey reassured leaders in Thailand that the United States intended to stand firm in Southeast Asia.

Five years ago: South Vietnamese troops were driving into Laos and reported seizing large stores of Communist arms and supplies.

Thought for today: Reading is sometimes an ingenious device for avoiding thought — Sir Arthur Helps, English historian, 1813-1875.

Deaths

Pansy Smith

MORLEY— Mrs. Pansy L. Smith, 74, died at 10:45 a.m. Thursday in Missouri Delta Community Hospital at Sikeston, where she had been a patient for three and a half weeks.

She was born Feb. 28, 1901 at Karbers Ridge, Ill., to the late Ulys and Mary Lane and was a member of the Morley Baptist Church and a senior citizens group.

On Oct. 28, 1917, she married Jake B. Smith of Crowder, who survives. Two sons and two daughters preceded her in death.

The family moved to Morley in 1942.

Also surviving are: one son, Henry U. Smith of Shabbona, Ill.; four daughters, Mrs. Mary Ann Phillips of Oran, Mrs. Imogene Wells of Benton, Mrs. Lillian Milam of Jonesboro, Ill., and Shirley Smith of Dallas; one brother, Bill Lane of Collinsville, Ill.; three sisters, Mrs. Hazel Cogdill of Charleston, Mrs. Beryl Small of Webster Groves and Mrs. Reva Wise of Hanley Hills; and 21 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

Friends may call after 4:30 p.m. today at Amick-Burnett Funeral Home in Benton.

Services are scheduled at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Morley Baptist Church with the Rev. Liston Smith, pastor, officiating.

Burial will be in Hickory Groves Cemetery near Morley.

Leonard Farley

CHARLESTON— Services for Leonard Farley, 52, who died Tuesday at Madeira Beach, Fla., are scheduled at 1 p.m. Sunday in McMikle Funeral Home. The Rev. Robert Garner, pastor of the Free Pentecostal Church, will officiate.

Burial will follow in Oak Grove Cemetery near Charleston.

Friends may call after 2:30 p.m. Saturday at the funeral home.

Born Oct. 18, 1923 in West Frankfort, Ill., he was the son of the late Oliver and Edith Cruson Farley and a veteran of World War II.

Surviving are one son, Dale Farley of Culver City, Calif.; one daughter, Mrs. Steve Almstead of Culver City; four brothers, G. R. Farley of Paramount, Calif., Rodney Farley of Hamilton, Ohio, Paul Farley of Jefferson City and Wendell Farley of Sikeston; and two sisters, Mrs. Clyde Groves of Thebes, Ill., and Mrs. June House of Poplar Bluff.

One son preceded him in death.

Littie Frison

HOWARDVILLE— Littie Harris Frison, 84, died Sunday at her home.

She was born June 20, 1891 in Conway, Ark.

Survivors include her widower, Mack McKinley Frison; three sons, Carl and Floyd Harris of St. Louis and Claude Harris of New Madrid; two sisters, Elenoria Wiley of Denver, Colo., and Addie Dickerson of Conway; one half brother, Sam Whitworth of Chicago; and 30 grandchildren and 51 great-grandchildren.

Friends may call from 7 to 9 p.m. Saturday at Richards Funeral Home in New Madrid, where services are scheduled at 1:30 p.m. Sunday with the Rev. Charlie Bell officiating.

Burial will be in Fannie Powell Cemetery at New Madrid.

Paul L. Rolwing

CHARLESTON— Paul L. Rolwing, 84, of Route Two died at 6 a.m. today in Missouri Delta Community Hospital at Sikeston.

The body is at McMikle Funeral Home, where arrangements are incomplete.

IT'S A PLANE SHAME

DETROIT (AP) — Coach Roy Kramer chartered two 44-passenger planes to fly his Central Michigan State team to a night game at Illinois State. But when the travel party arrived at the airport the afternoon of the game only one plane was on hand.

Bond calls MAPPS 'landmark'

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Gov. Christopher S. Bond has called a Missouri Action Plan for Public Safety a "landmark" in the fight against crime in Missouri.

"The public can expect something to come out of it if the public gets involved," Bond said after he received the MAPPS recommendations here Thursday.

The plan, drawn up by six citizen task forces formed last July, calls for a mandatory, no-parole five-year prison term for offenders using a weapon during a crime, an end to closed-door plea bargaining, beefed-up juvenile programs and statewide minimum standards for law enforcement officers.

Bond said he agreed with the minimum sentences for the use of a weapon in the commission of a crime, but he said he favored a three-year term to avoid overcrowding of jails.

The MAPPS report agreed with the 1973 report of the National Advisory Commission on Criminal Justice Standards and Goals, which decried the behind-the-scenes plea bargaining system in which an offender is persuaded to plead guilty to a lesser charge in return for a lighter sentence.

Any plea bargining, the report said, should be reported in court at the same time the guilty plea is accepted.

The MAPPS plan recommended that community juvenile programs should be set and a statewide system of full-time prosecutors and public defendants be established.

Also called for by the report were reductions in probation and parole officers' case loads a system to monitor the length of time between a complaint being filed and being acted on in court.

The MAPPS plan was the result of the work of nearly 200 citizens. It was financed by a $225,000 grant from the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration and coordinated by the state Department of Public Safety.

Heart month proclaimed

Mayor Don Fulton signs a proclamation designating February as American Heart Month and urging all residents of Sikeston and Scott County to support the 1976 Heart Fund campaign. From left, are Beverly Southerland, publicity chairman; Mayor Fulton; and Sherri Watson, county chairman. Mayor Fulton stated in his proclamation that heart and blood vessel diseases claim more than a million lives each year and account for 52 per cent of deaths from all casues. During American Heart Month, local volunteers will join the more than two million volunteers nationwide to distribute heart- saving information and collect funds for research programs, and educational and community projects dedicated to combating diseases of the heart and circulatory system.

This continued moderation of inflationary pressures and the report last week of a sharp drop in the nation's unemployment rate gives support to the Ford administration's forecast of continued economic recovery in the new year.

It also offered consumers the prospect of an easing in retail prices in the coming months, as trends in wholesale prices usually are reflected later at the retail level.

In January, the wholesale price index for farm products, processed foods and feeds fell 1.8 per cent following declines of 2.5 per cent in December and 1.2 per cent in November.

The decline in agricultural products offset a four-tenths of a per cent increase in industrial commodities.

Social Services get $182 million boost

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The State Department of Social Services budget got a boost Thursday in the form of a $182 million increase over this year approved by the House Appropriations Committee.

Also approved by the committee was a measure funding the General Assembly's operaions, including salaries and daily allowances for state legislators.

The $652 million Social Services budget represents an increase in miscellaneous costs and in federal financing, but shows a decrease in state general revenue spending and in federal revenue sharing money.

The bill includes funding for a number of health related fields including cancer research, mental health care facilities, veterans affairs and the state Corrections Department.

The legislative funding bill, which totals $7.5 million, includes a $40,000 provision for the governor's inaugural ball, a traditional event.

More than $9.5 million is included in the social services measure to fund the maximum security prisons for men here.

Stoddard County lists senior citizen number

ADVANCE— Senior citizens who live in the northern part of Stoddard County may call telephone number 722-5122 when they have a question. This information and referral service has been established in the area to help people with problems or to give information and answers to questions.

Persons 55 and over who are interested in knowing more about, or have questions about, medical transportation available; the homemaker program, the nutrition programs operating daily in this region, where to get more information on tax credit forms, assistance in obtaining medical equipment or answers on retirement or pension plans may call the above number after 9:30 a.m. throughout the day. Calls are toll free and a person qualified will be on hand to answer.

Malden post office names operations superintendent

MALDEN— Mrs. Letha L. Hance of Corning, Ark., has been assigned to the Malden post office as superintendent of postal operations to succeed Wilbur Thornton, who recently was named postmaster.

The title, superintendent of postal operations, is a new postal recognition for the old title, assistant postmaster.

Mrs. Hance was reassigned to Malden Feb. 1 from the sectional center post office in Poplar Bluff. She assumed her duties Feb. 5. The Malden assignment also meant a promotion for Mrs. Hance, who has 17 years of government service with the past six years in the post office department.

She credits the assignment to Malden to the postal experience and background gained as an employe in the sectional center and postal-oriented offices she was assigned during her husband's military career.

Mrs. Hance is originally from Wardell and is married to Franklin E. Hance, a retired U.S. Army Commander sergeant major (SCM). The Hance family moved to Corning after his retirement from the Army in March 1974.

The Hances are parents of four children: Franklin Hance Jr., an Army Sergeant stationed at Ft. Stewart, Ga.; Donald L. Hance, assistant manager of the Overland Park Station Restaurant in Shawnee Mission, Kan.; Mrs. Terry Sanders of Shawnee Mission; and Allen Hance, a senior at Corning High School.

Hance plans to move to Malden as soon as suitable housing arrangements can be made.

Looking back

Charlestonians can really dance

50ears ago
February 13, 1926

Little Daniel Malone and Helen Virginia Keith "done themselves proud" Monday when they danced the Charleston at the Malone Theatre. These young artists are billed for the Malone Theatre on February 22 and 23, their dance to follow that of Jack Stubbs and Miss Evelyn Smith, Sikeston's most famous "Charlestonians."

Miner-Switch--Otis Bishop has pneumonia.

Within the next two weeks, the following exchanges of residences will be made -- Mrs. F. D. Lair, sr., will move to one of the A. F. Lindsay apartments on North Ranney; Mr. and Mrs. Herman Mattingly and daughter, Frances, will move into Mrs. Lair's home on North New Madrid street; and Jack Lair and family will occupy the Mattingly house on Vernon avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Taylor, who own the house vacated by Jack Lair and family, are returning to Sikeston, and will occupy same.

W. W. Wilkison was called to Kansas City Sunday by the death of his stepmother, Mrs. W. W. Wilkison, sr.

Harry Tope left last Friday for Columbia, Mo., where he has enrolled in the University of Missouri.

Mrs. T. M. Travelstead entertained Monday for her daughter, Monica Sue, whose eighth birthday occurred that day.

Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Richards of Route one, invited girl friends in honor of their daughter, Willa Dean's birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Russell and son have moved from 203 North Ranney to 509 Heath street.

The Bulldogs met and soundly defeated the Kennett Quintet last night. The score was Sikeston 71, Kennett 53. Joe Rowe sparked the Bulldog attack with a 23-point performance. Don Keller sank 14 points and Robb Monroe 12.

Parma -- Apparently the victim of a heart attack during the previous night, Oscar Ray Cochran, 72- year-old retired farmer, was found dead in his home Wednesday.

Baskets of white gladioli, combined with greenery and candlelight decorated the altar of St. Francis Xavier Church for the Saturday wedding of Miss Joan Fleet Bishop and Patrick Newcum Rolwing. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Springs Bishop, 613 Tanner, and Mr. Rolwing is the son of Mrs. Ethel N. Rolwing of Route 2, Charleston and the late Otto Rolwing.

Babies born at the Delta Community Hospital Saturday were: A baby girl to Mr. and Mrs. Howard P. Ruffin of Route 3, Matthews; and a baby girl to Mr. and Mrs. Dick Green of Route 4. Babies born Sunday were: A daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Freed of Selma street; and a son to Mr. and Mrs. Orville Skalsky, 228 Murray Lane.

A son was born Saturday to Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Reed of Dexter at Southeast Missouri Hospital, Cape.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Sides of New Madrid are parents of a daughter born Thursday at St. Francis Hospital.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Joe Duncan of Lilbourn Thursday at Southeast Missouri Hospital, Cape.

The birthday of Abraham Lincoln yesterday had particular significance for Chris L. Francis, for he has a step brother, George Washington Moss, of Osage County, Mo., who was born while Lincoln was president on January 27, 1863. Mr. Moss, despite his advanced age of 93, is still mentally alert and can recall many of the stirring events of those days that saw his early childhood.

The Salt Cathedral of Aipaquira, Columbia, 32 miles north of Bogota, is an actual church carved with Gothic arches 1,300 feet underground in a salt mine. The church can accommodate 10,000 worshippers.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

2. Card of Thanks

We wish to thank all those who sent flowers and food for the funeral of Frank A. McBain.
Kathryn and Fred McBain

Words can never express our thanks to all the good people, the churches, and others for the gifts of food, money, clothing, bedding, etc., since the loss of our home by fire. We do sincerely appreciate every kindness shown and trust that a loving God will bless you for it.
The family of Jerry Hicks.

Sal Mineo stabbed to death

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Sal Mineo, known as "The Switchblade Kid" for his many film roles as a teen-age tough, has been stabbed to death outside his Hollywood apartment house, authorities said.

Witnesses told police they heard screams and saw a man with long, blond hair running from the alley where Mineo was killed Thursday night.

Sheriff's Information Officer Anthony Silas said investigators were still searching for the murder weapon. He said there was no immediate indication of the motive for the attack.

Neighbors found the 37-year-old actor lying face-up in a pool of blood about 20 feet from a parking area behind his apartment, police said. He had been stabbed in the chest.

Bill Jones, a neighbor in the moderately expensive apartments near the Sunset Strip, said, "We heard about three yells. The last yell was 'Help.' We rushed out and saw Sal lying face-up, breathing really hard.

"He was like in a daze, trying to breathe. He didn't say anything."

Another neighbor, Mary Chance, 21, said, "It was too quiet. Then all of a sudden those screams, we heard those screams."

Neighbors said Mineo was quiet and kept to himself.

Authorities said the actor apparently lived alone and that his family resides in New York.

Mineo was in rehearsal for a starring role in "P.S. Your Cat Is Dead," a play scheduled to open next week at the Westwood Playhouse.

Highlights of his acting career included his portrayal of a juvenile delinquent along with James Dean in "Rebel Without A Cause" and later as an Israeli terrorist in "Exodus." Both performances won him Academy Award nominations.

As a delinquent in "Dino," he won a television Emmy in 1955.

A Gene Krupa fan, one of his favorite roles was that of the drummer in "The Gene Krupa Story." He more recently appeared as an ape in "Escape from the Planet of the Apes."

Mineo was born Jan. 10, 1939, in New York City, the son of Italian immigrant parents. He began his show business career when he was 11.
